CHINESE REPUBLIC APPEALS TO WORLD FOR RECOGNITION

New Government Wants Status Fixed Before Abdication That There May be No Perilous Interregnum.

Nanking, China, Jan. 19.—The republican government today sent an appeal to the powers for recognition. This took the form of a circular which was sent to Washington, Tokio, London, Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg and was signed by Wang Chung Wei, the foreign minister of the republican cabinet. The terms of the circular are as follows:

"The Manchu government having entered into negotiations with the republic of China for the purpose of abdicating its entire sovereign rights, powers and privileges, we fervently pray for recognition, in order to avoid a disastrous interregnum."
(Signed) "WANG CHUNG WEI, Foreign Minister."

GETTING READY FOR CRISIS. Lond'n, Jan. 19.—In an imperial edict

TERMS OF THE REPUBLICANS.

Nanking, China, Jan. 19.—It appears now to be absolutely certain that fighting between the revolutionists and the imperialists will be resumed on the morning of Jan. 28, unless Premier Yuan Shi Kai concedes to the demands of the republican government.

These demands which were telegraphed to the premier at Peking, are very drastic and substantially as follows:

1.—The abdication of the throne and

CARDINAL FARLEY AS MULTITUDE IN NEW YORK CITY GREETED HIM

The ovation to the prelate upon his return from Rome was continuous from the Battery to St. Patrick's

"GUESS I WILL HAVE TO PUT ON SOFT PEDAL," SAID COL. HARVEY

Editor Harper's Weekly Forced Gov. Wilson Into Frank Statement and Then Acquiesced in It.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 19.—"Well, I'll have to put on the soft pedal," said Col. Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, when he was asked to have made following Gov. Woodrow Wilson's forced reply to Col. Harvey's query, who said he feared editorial support in the weekly was injuring his (Wilson's) cause.

A statement purporting to be a description of the meeting between Col. Harvey and Gov. Wilson, with Henry Watterson, in New York, was given out here today by Judge Robert E. Wing, middle Tennessee representative of the state Woodrow Wilson campaign. Judge Wing, who is related by marriage both to Gov. Wilson and Mr.

WORLD'S NEED IS MEN WHO CAN DO

Governor Marshall Speaks on Education at High School Dedication.

SHELBYVILLE AFFAIR

Shelbyville, Ind., Jan. 19.—With Gov. Thomas R. Marshall as the principal speaker, the high school building, erected at a cost of $100,000 and said to be one of the finest in the state, was dedicated here today. Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, was also present and spoke on hygiene in the school. Speeches were made by a number of persons here prominent in school work.

Gov. Marshall, speaking to "What is Education?" said that while the question is often asked it had never been answered to universal satisfaction. He said in part:

"Some considered education from the standpoint of mere information—the attainment of knowledge; and some from the standpoint of personal satisfaction—the feeling within a man that he knows. Others consider it from the standpoint of making a career and there are still other old-fashioned people, myself included, who believe that education consists in the making of a man—a slow process of time—not always wrought out in the schools and not inevitably accomplished even by years of observation and experience."

"Perhaps in this country and in the common school system, it is well to consider the relation of the state to its children. If the state is the common parent of us all, then the schools of the country should be adapted to the making of good citizenship and that which adapts one man to good citizenship may not adapt another."

The governor then made a plea for diversified education, declaring that all were not fit to make a success in literature and that one great problem was the separating of this class from the persons "whom nature intended to go out with their hands and do every day work of life. The world is constantly in need of men who know things, but it is in far greater need of men who do things."

BULLETIN.

Manchester, Eng., Jan. 19.—The dispute in the cotton trade which culminated in a lockout affecting about 300,000 men on Dec. 27 was settled today. The question at issue between employers and workers was the employment of non-unionist labor. All of the mills will be reopened on Monday.

DEATH AT ROANOKE.

Mrs. John Barr, an Old Resident, Died Early This Morning.

(Special to The Sentinel.) Roanoke, Ind., Jan. 19.—Mrs. John Barr, one of the old residents of Roanoke, died this morning at 7 o'clock at her home, aged over 72 years, after an illness of some weeks. She was well known and highly esteemed. The maiden name of Mrs. Barr was Harriet Dickey. She was born at Woodbury, Pa., on December 12, 1839, and in 1865 was married to Mr. Barr. His death occurred fifteen years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Barr came to this city to reside shortly after their marriage.

Surviving the deceased are six children. Homer, a son, resides at Fort Wayne. The family of another son, Milo, lives here, but he is employed at present in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Barr was a member of the United Brethren church.

CITY SHOULD BUY ALL RIVER FRONTAGE NOW, SAY SPEAKERS

Mr. Bookwalter and Dr. Jamieson Urge Fort Wayne to Act Quickly in Its Beautification Work.

Commending Fort Wayne unqualifiedly for its awakened civic interest and its plans for parkways and river beautification, Hon. Charles A. Bookwalter, former mayor of Indianapolis, and Dr. Henry C. Jamieson, chairman of the Indianapolis board of park commissioners, speaking at the Commercial club Thursday evening, urged the immediate purchase by the city of all the river frontage that will be needed in carrying out the great improvement enterprise.

The experience of Indianapolis was held up as a warning. Here the river frontage was acquired bit by bit and improved as rapidly as it was purchased. The result has been that the improvement has so enhanced the value of river frontage still needed that the city is compelled to pay so high a price for it that it is suffering a penalty for its own enterprise. The belief was expressed that this lack of foresight will cost the city of Indianapolis $1,000,000 more than it might have otherwise had to pay for the land, and Fort Wayne was urged to profit by the capital city's mistake.

Favor the Bond Issue.

While both Mr. Bookwalter and Dr. Jamieson disclaimed intention of "taking sides" on the question of the issue of $200,000 bonds for the purchase of the river banks, they plainly indicated in their addresses that this is the plan that is found to be most advisable. In any event, the work was declared to be the most important in which Fort Wayne had engaged for many years, and the city was urged to carry it forward for the purpose of making Fort Wayne a better place in which to live, to keep pace in the competition with other cities now moving along similar lines and as an investment that will yield tremendous returns in enhanced

MORSE AWAITING WIFE'S ARRIVAL

Pardoned Banker Will Go from Atlanta as Soon as She Comes.

IS NOW AT LIBERTY

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19.—Arrangements for moving Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, whose 15 years' sentence was commuted last evening by the president to a sanitarium, were held up today pending the arrival of Mrs. Morse from Washington. She is due to reach Atlanta at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Morse is occupying his room at the army hospital now as a "guest" of the government; his freedom having been given him yesterday by Varden Moyer, of the federal penitentiary, upon telegraphic advice from Washington. It is expected he will go to a local hospital and later to New York, where he will prepare to visit one of the German resorts if his condition permits.

While the former prisoner was greatly brightened this morning at the news of commutation, the military physicians would permit few persons to see him.

Henry C. Paul has gone to Washington.

DYNAMITE USED; WASHHOUSE GONE

Large Laundry at Pueblo, Col., Blown Up With Explosive.

A NON-UNION CONCERN

Pueblo, Col., Jan. 19.—A terrific dynamite explosion early today partly wrecked the Colorado laundry, in the heart of the business district of this city and damaged the office of the Globe Express company. City detectives who immediately began an investigation found a dynamite fuse in the alley outside of the express office.

The laundry, one of the largest in the west, is a non-union plant. It is believed the object was to destroy a large tank used as a water softener. When this was being erected several years ago it mysteriously toppled over one night. The tank was erected by a Chicago Heights, Ill., company.

Albert S. Bond, president of the Packard company, has returned from New York city, where he attended a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Plan Manufacturers. Mr. Bond is vice president of the association as well as a member of the committee.

ROUGH RIDER HAS THE MOTOR FEVER

Colonel Roosevelt Catches It and Surrenders to Speed Bug.

IS HIS OWN DRIVER

New York, Jan. 19.—Theodore Roosevelt, a colonel of the Rough Riders, has at length yielded to the lendency of the times, and sits behind the steering wheel of his automobile. Residents of Oyster Bay on several occasions recently have seen Colonel Roosevelt driving through the town with his hand on the wheel, steering the car as though he were thoroughly familiar with the mysteries of the levers and pedals which must be manipulated. The sight was a surprising one because Colonel Roosevelt's love of the horse and aversion to automobiles were well known. When he was at Oyster Bay during the summer he refused to permit automobilists to enter his grounds in the cars. It was only a few months ago, in fact, that he removed a sign which long stood at the entrance to the grounds, announcing that automobiles must keep away. In spite of Colonel Roosevelt's preference for the horse, he found an automobile indispensable when he began to make regular trips between Oyster Bay and his editorial offices in New York. If he went by train he was besieged by persons who wanted to talk with him. He covers the thirty-three miles to the city by automobile in about the same time as is required by train and uses that method of conveyance except in the coldest or most stormy weather. Gradually he picked up information about the mechanism of the car, but it was only recently that he began to drive it. The colonel still prefers the horse and whenever he is at home takes daily horseback rides.

As a concession to the automobile Colonel Roosevelt recently built a broad macadam road from his home on the crown of Sagamore Hill to the public highway below. For generations the Roosevelt family had used a narrow dirt road which wound up the side of the hill through the trees with several sharp turns.

AWFUL CONDITION HOLDS MACEDONIA

Disarmed Christians at the Mercy of Savage Muslims.

LAND IN A TURMOIL

Constantinople, Jan. 19.—The commission of inquiry sent by the Ottoman government to investigate the conditions in Macedonia shortly after the recent dynamite outrages in that region have reported that the greatest dejection is manifested by the people. They have, according to the report of the commission, prepared a secret petition to the foreign powers asking for intervention. Assassinations are multiplying daily and dynamite outrages everywhere are on the increase. Even officers of the Turkish army are unable to hide their gloom. Everywhere the people speak of a general uprising which, if it does not occur immediately, will take place in the spring.

The conditions are due to the presence of officials who are utterly unworthy of the confidence the Turkish government has placed in them. They disarm the Christian population and supply arms to the Muslims. Innocent people are condemned by them on the merest suspicion and cast into prison. Continued throughout an entire week, and there, as in other towns and villages, consternation prevails. Early in December a bomb outrage in a mosque at Istib caused the death of twelve persons. The Turks avowed the outrage on the Bulgarians, of whom they killed and wounded a large number.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 19.—Three men were killed when the boiler of the river steamer Sarah Dixon exploded early today four miles south of Kalama. The pilot house was ripped from the superstructure. The dead are Captain Fred Stinson, Mate Arthur Monical and a deckhand. Nine persons were rescued from the sinking steamer.

TURKS AND ARABS MAKE AN ATTACK

Launch Terrific Assault on Italian Column Near Tripoli.

PREPARE TO MARCH

Tripoli, Jan. 19.—A terrific attack was made yesterday by a large body of Turks and Arabs on an Italian column which was on the march about ten miles from the town of Tripoli.

PREPARING FOR ADVANCE.

Tripoli, Jan. 19.—The military situation in Tripoli during the past month has to all appearances not undergone any change. All the fighting that has occurred has been begun by the Turks, who have repeatedly attacked the Italian troops at different points and have just as often been repulsed.

As a matter of fact, however, the Italian commanders have been using time as an ally. They have been busily engaged in strengthening the positions held by their troops and preparing for an advance into the interior. Transportation on an enormous scale has been gathered here and material for the construction of a railroad into the desert is arriving in large quantities.

The only possible danger of the plans of the Italians being upset is that peace may be declared at an early date.

The Arabs do not understand the reasons for the Italian delay and they are impressed with the idea that the Italian army is unable to encounter effectively the insignificant number of Muslims opposing it. Under the circumstances even should the Turkish troops be withdrawn the Arabs are determined to continue the fight against the Italians.

The Italian troops, which consisted of detachments of all arms, left Tripoli early in the morning on the way to Ghagarish, a small oasis situated about ten or eleven miles along the coast to the west of the town and surrounded by a number of mud forts, which had hitherto given shelter to Arab irregulars.

Suddenly as the soldiers were marching along the road, which runs parallel to the coast, they were attacked by a large force of Turks and Arabs. The Italians immediately took up position and threw up field entrenchments. The enemy continued its attacks throughout the day, but finally retired.

FRENCH STEAMER SEIZED.

Tunis, Jan. 19.—Italian destroyers today seized the French steamer Manoubu. The Manoubu is a mail boat and was carrying ninety-nine passengers, including twenty-nine Turkish nurses.

The steamship company declares that the Manoubu was not carrying contraband of any kind, but the Italian officers, who effected the seizure, professed to believe that Turkish officers were on board, disguised as nurses.

GOT THE MEN TOGETHER.

Forty Laborers Sent Out of State Branch in Thirty Minutes. Louis L. C. Schroeder and John Wessel, jr., in charge of the local branch of the Indiana free employment bureau, hustled forty laborers out on the Pennsylvania in thirty minutes after they received a call this morning. The men are wanted to work on a wreck at Davis, Ind., and had applications on file in the local office.

FOUR-FOOT RISE SHOWN IN RIVERS

Cold Checks Rapid Jump Toward Flood Stage in Streams.

CHILL IS PASSING

The miniature January thaw which preceded last night's drop in the temperature had the effect of sending the rivers in Fort Wayne up a total of four feet in twenty-four hours. At 7 o'clock this morning the Maumee had a stage of 7.8 feet.

This is nowhere near the flood point, and the cold has effectually checked any further rise at this time, but the rapid jump in the streams yesterday was somewhat phenomenal.

Temperature in Fort Wayne last night dropped to 14 degrees above zero—just one degree removed from the mark set by Forecaster Palmer in his estimate given out yesterday morning. The lowering temperature was accompanied by a slight snowfall.

Warmer weather will follow tomorrow, according to Forecaster Palmer, who says the present cold will not be so prolonged as was the siege of winter which "broke" a few days ago after a long performance at and below the zero mark.

MOTHER IS INDICTED.

Accused of Poisoning Child to Obtain Insurance.

Lancaster, O., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Nancy Hall, mother of little Ruth Hall, who died several weeks ago after eating pan-cakes in which arsenic was found, today was indicted by the Fairfield county grand jury charged with murder in the first degree. Mrs. Hall has been in jail for two weeks pending the investigation. Her husband had two other daughters were also made sick after eating pan-cakes. Mr. Hall, believing in the innocence of his wife, has employed four attorneys to defend her. Mrs. Hall collected $200 insurance on the life of her daughter. She probably will be arraigned at once.

AEROPLANES FOR WAR.

Paris, Jan. 19.—The French government will ask the chamber of deputies for an appropriation of $4,000,000 for the construction of aeroplanes for military purposes.

INDIANA'S HOG RAISING CHAMPION.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19.—Henry C. Jones, a well known farmer and stock raiser, of Waldron, Ind., who is a guest at the Denison hotel, probably holds the record among Indiana farmers for marketing hogs in Indianapolis in 1911. In the twelve months he shipped 35 car loads from his farms and received approximately $40,000. Jones came in yesterday with his sixth car load since Jan. 1. He is one of the biggest stock raisers in the state. His specialty is hogs. A hog on the Jones farm receives as much care and attention as a high priced horse or cow. A stock barn to care for several hundred porkers is being erected by Mr. Jones on one of his farms near Waldron.

The surrender of the sovereign powers are demanded.

2.—No Manchuria may participate in the provisional government of China.

3.—The capital of the provisional government cannot be established at Peking.

4.—Premier Yuan Shi Kai cannot participate in the provisional government of China until the republic has been recognized by the foreign powers and the country has been restored to peace and harmony.

Today's decided action by the republican government is due to Premier Yuan Shi Kai's demand that Dr. Sun Yat Sen resign the presidency permitting Yuan Shi Kai to exercise sovereign powers until the national convention, which is to be called to decide on the form of government for China, shall have reached a conclusion. In the meantime, Premier Yuan Shi Kai desires the court to retire temporarily, transferring its powers to him. The court, however, objected to leaving Peking until the national convention had reached a decision.

The ultimatum, according to the republican leaders, is the last word of the republicans.

President Sun Yat Sen said today to the Associated Press:

"I have taken an oath to oust the Manchurian rulers and restore peace to the country before resigning. I have taken an oath to establish a republic in China and if I consented to the propositions laid down by Yuan Shi Kai, I should be forewarned."

"We are now confident of the righteousness of our cause and of the superiority of our military strength. If Yuan Shi Kai persists in obstructing our armies will be ordered to march northward."

President Sun Yat Sen declared that entire harmony exists within the ranks of the republicans. Yuan Shi Kai, it is said, agreed a few days ago to the unequivocal retirement of the Manchurians and through the recognition of a republic as the government of the southern provinces, he accepted the idea of a dual administration, the north to be under Yuan Shi Kai and the south under Dr. Sun Yat Sen pending the decision of the national convention on the future government which is to be held at a neutral point.

There is reason to believe that this arrangement may be the final outcome of the negotiations between the republicans and the imperialists.

AMERICAN TROOPS ARRIVE.

Peking, China, Jan. 19.—The Fifteenth regiment of United States infantry, which is to act as a guard for the protection of the coast, arrived at Chin Wang Tao today on board the transport Logan.

Capt. J. H. Reeves, military attaché of the United States legation, was on the quay waiting to greet the troops as they disembarked.

MUST NOT BELONG TO CIVIC SOCIETY

Miners May Put Barrier Between Delegates and the Nabobs.

A BLOW AT MITCHELL

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19.—No member of the National Civic Federation shall be a delegate to a convention of the United Mine Workers of America, according to the provisions of a new constitution for the organization which was submitted to the miners convention here today by the constitution committee. The proposed new constitution also provides that the election of officers and national conventions shall be held every two years instead of each year, as under the present constitution. During the convention of the miners in Columbus, Ohio, last year a resolution aimed directly at John Mitchell, a former president of the organization, was adopted, declaring members of the National Civic Federation ineligible as delegates to the miners' convention. Mitchell then withdrew from the Civic Federation, but since has charged that the convention "was packed against him."

A telegram was received today from Mitchell stating that he would be here Tuesday to explain his action in the last convention of the American Federation of Labor at Atlanta, where, as delegate from the miners' organization he refused to support a movement to condemn the National Civic Federation. J. A. Holmes, director of the government bureau of mines, in a telegram read today to the convention, asked permission to address the miners.

earnest support was militating against his (Wilson's) prospects."

Judge Wing declares Gov. Wilson's opinion was decidedly contrary to this view. Then followed the meeting in New York between Wilson, Harvey and Watterson. Judge Wing declares at the close of the conference Col. Harvey arose and said to Gov. Wilson:

"I wish to ask you a question and I expect a frank answer: Do you believe that the booming nature of my articles in Harper's Weekly is injuring your cause?"

Judge Wing says Gov. Wilson's friendship for Harvey had demanded frankness and that Governor Wilson was obliged, with much embarrassment, to make such a reply that later his name (as candidate for the democratic presidential nomination) was removed from the editorial column of Harper's Weekly. And Judge Wing asserts Col. Harvey exclaimed:

"Well, I'll have to put on the soft pedal."

WILSON HAS NOTHING TO SAY.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, today, the second day of his brief tour through Michigan, was scheduled to address a meeting at Ann Arbor about noon and another at Grand Rapids later in the day.

Before leaving Detroit Gov. Wilson said he had no opportunity as yet to give to the statement of Col. Henry Watterson the consideration that it demanded. He said he was unlikely to issue any statement concerning this matter during his present tour. Further he said he was not in the habit of issuing statements and might make no reply.

PERSISTS IN SILENCE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 19.—"I have nothing to say on that matter," said Gov. Woodrow Wilson today when shown the statement of Judge Robert Ewing concerning the Col. Harvey incident. Gov. Wilson also refused to discuss the Watterson case. He addressed the university students and townspeople this forenoon and he will go to Grand Rapids this afternoon.

AT THE FAIRY TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Twenty years in Sing Sing is the special feature attraction at the Fairy today and tomorrow. This picture is greeted by crowded houses wherever shown. Some of the thrilling scenes in the production are the exciting horse races, the arrest, real prison life, the sensational escape through the sewer, trailed by bloodhounds, the leap for life and a great wrong righted, all so convincingly told that the spectators' minds are held in a thrill. Twenty years in Sing Sing is a triumph in moving picture history as one of the big successes scored by the silent drama. Every scene is taken on nature's own stage.

We expect to sell 200 overcoats tomorrow at from $5 to $15 under the price of any other store in the state. Don't miss these values.

M. S. WICKLIFFE DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Man Yields to Attack of Acute Indigestion.

DEATHS OF THE DAY

Michael S. Wickliffe, aged 57 years, former deputy auditor of Allen county, died very suddenly Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock at the family residence, 1001 Columbia avenue, from acute indigestion.

Mr. Wickliffe had been employed as bookkeeper at the Weil Bros. & Company.

MICHAEL S. WICKLIFFE,
Well Known Fort Wayne Man Who Died Suddenly.

pany for some time and about 5 o'clock Thursday evening he complained of illness, which was thought to be due to gas escaping from stomach. He was taken to his home in a taxicab and after his arrival appeared to be considerably improved. Shortly after the attending physician left the house he suffered a relapse and expired before the physician could be summoned again.

The deceased was born in Ireland in 1854 and came to the United States at an early age. For a number of years he made his home at Zanesville, this county, where he engaged in carpentry and contracting. He was engaged in teaching in the country schools when about thirty-five years ago he came to Fort Wayne to take a clerical position in the county treasurer's office under Treasurer John Dalman. Later he held a position as deputy auditor. Surviving relatives include the widow, Mrs. Jennie E. Wickliffe; one son, Eldridge Wickliffe, of Rosapoke; two stepsons, Thomas and Charles Clark of Fort Wayne; a sister residing at Alexandria, Ohio, and a brother at Etina, Ind.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence; interment at Lindenwood.

STROCK.

Edward J. Strock, aged 37 years, of 421 Wallace street, died this morning at 3:45 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital, where he had been a patient since Christmas. Death was due to dropsical complications. Mr. Strock has been ailing for several months, and on December 24, was taken seriously ill. The deceased was born and reared in Goshen, and was educated in that city. Fifteen years ago he moved to Fort Wayne, and since coming here has been employed as a machinist at the Pennsylvania shops. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine Strock, 421 Wallace street, and four sisters—Miss Josephine Strock, Mrs. S. F. Doriot and Mrs. E. B. Plattor, all of this city, and Mrs. W. C. Winnie, of Chicago. The deceased was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church and a member of the Macabees.

Water Backed in and Men Were Forced to Abandon Task.

REPORT IS FILED

Work of cleaning the intercepting sewer was temporarily checked today by a slight rise of the water in the rivers which sent in about seventeen inches and made it impossible for the city employees to get at the sediment in the bottom.

Just when the men will be able to resume is a question of weather conditions. If there is nothing to keep the water up the men can get back in the course of a day or two.

PASSES AWAY AT SEATTLE.

Mrs. Emma Ried, Former Allen County Woman, is No More.

Relatives in this city received word today of the death of Mrs. Emma Ried, which occurred Wednesday at her home in Seattle from pneumonia. Mrs. Ried was formerly Mrs. Emma Binkley. She was a daughter of the late Jacob Linen, one of the early settlers of Allen county. She is survived by three sons—Charles Binkley and Edward and Emerson Ried. Mrs. Richard Ellison, of Monroeville, is a sister. The burial will occur at Burlington, Iowa.

LADIES INSTALL OFFICERS.

Mad Anthony Hine No. 27, Ladies of the Macabees of the World, installed the following officers Thursday evening:

Mrs. Elizabeth Bushy presiding; Past commander, Mrs. Clark; commander, Mrs. Terry; lieutenant commander, Miss Stein; chaplain, Mrs. Hutchins; record keeper, Mrs. McKean; finance auditor, Mrs. Blakely; official prompter, Mrs. Hindman; sergeant, Mrs. Zimmerman; sentinel, Mrs. McClure; musical director, Mrs. Deaman; and musician, Mrs. Rossetol. Following installation the evening was spent socially with a few musical selections, songs and duets by Mrs. Rossetol and Miss Stein, after which refreshments were served.

SUFFERS FROM BLOOD POISON.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 19.—Suffering with gangrenous blood poisoning in his left foot, John P. Melting, former state senator and general counsel for the Union railroad, is in St. Elizabeth hospital. An operation for the removal of the fourth toe of the foot was performed today.

CITY BREVITIES.

Arch Campbell, of Kendallville, is in the city.

Vice President R. W. Watson, of Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, is still confined to his room at the Anthony by illness.

The funeral of Samuel C. Dierstein, was held Thursday afternoon at St. Louis.

Miss Rosie Rensman, of Walnut street, who has been visiting relatives at Birmingham, Ala., was brought home Wednesday evening suffering from a fractured leg, which she sustained by falling from a step and turning her ankle.

Ben McIntosh, of Monroeville, is spending the day in the city.

CROWD FLOCKS TO POULTRY SHOW

Management Considers Exhibition a Success in Every Way.

HIGH CLASS BIRDS

The second annual poultry show of the Poultry Fanciers' association, of Allen county, is without doubt the most successful exhibition, from every standpoint, ever held in the city. Although the weather was disagreeable Thursday, the second day of the show, the attendance was good and the officers of the association express themselves as more than satisfied. A. G. Phillips, of Purdue university, lectured at 2 o'clock this afternoon on "Poultry Raising in the Country" and tonight will lecture on "Poultry Raising in a City Lot."

Professor Phillips is regarded as one of the best posted men in the country on poultry raising and his lecture this afternoon was well attended.

The three-legged rooster and the hen with one wing, which are on exhibition on the main floor, are attracting considerable interest, and the rooster is especially so, as a freak of this kind is rarely seen.

The golden and silver pheasants on exhibition in the pigeon department on the third floor, are also attracting considerable attention, as the birds, with their handsome plumage, make a fine showing.

Judge Northrup stated to the Sentinel this morning that the show was one of the best managed exhibitions he had ever judged and that the birds entered were of a high class. The following is a list of the results in the various classes judged Thursday:

Battled Plymouth Rocks.

P. H. Weikal, Marion, Ind., 1st cock, 1st and 5th hen, 5th cockerel, 1st, 3rd and 4th pullet, 2nd pen.

GIFT OF CARNEGIE

TO KENDALLVILLE

Steel King Has Given $12,500 to City for Erection of Public Library Building.

Kendallville, Ind., Jan. 19.—Andrew Carnegie has signified his willingness to give Kendallville the sum of $12,500 for the erection of a public library building and the friends of the library movement, who have labored bravely for years for a suitable library building in this city, are rejoicing. The city library is now located in the basement of the central school building and when it comes into a building of its own it will be a building of its own usefulness.

The announcement of Mr. Carnegie was first made public Wednesday evening at the adjourned session of the city council, when a communication from Charles Beckman, president of the Kendallville public library board, was read and received. The communication officially informed the council that Mr. Carnegie had signified his willingness to donate the above amount and the council took the necessary steps authorizing the board, on behalf of the city, to receive the donation.

Mr. Carnegie's announcement was received after considerable correspondence between his secretary and members of the library board, in the course of which efforts were made to secure a larger amount. The board, as well as other local citizens, had figured that Kendallville should have all the way from $20,000 to $30,000 for a suitable library building, and that this building should also be a suitable auditorium which could be used for various kinds of public meetings, but Mr. Carnegie's representatives, in their communications with the local board members, gave them to understand that Mr. Carnegie is not building auditoriums, gymnasiums or anything of the sort, but that he is interested in establishing libraries and for this purpose alone he would consider a proposition of contributing to the library undertaking of Kendallville.

The board, after considering the matter and investigating what had been done in other cities and towns where smaller appropriations were made, came to the conclusion that it would be advisable to accept the gift offered by Mr. Carnegie.

Formal acceptance of the offer of Mr. Carnegie has already been communicated to his representatives and in due course of time it is expected the donation will be officially made.

MRS. HENRY MICHAUD.

Death at Berne of a Well Known Woman.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 18.—A telephone message to County Auditor H. S. Michaud yesterday afternoon brought the news of the death of his step-mother, Mrs. Henry Michaud, a well known resident of Berne, which occurred yesterday morning. Mrs. Michaud had been ailing for some time and her death was not unexpected at this time. Mrs. Michaud's name before her marriage to Mr. Michaud, about fifteen years ago, was Mrs. Harriet Cory, and she was a resident of Ohio. Since her marriage to Mr. Michaud, however, she had been a resident of Berne. She was sixty years of age. Besides her husband, several brothers and sisters, Mrs. Michaud leaves five children. The funeral will be held Sunday morning from the German Reformed church at Berne.

INFLAMED KIDNEYS

Medical writers declare it incurable after the sixth month whether albuminous or not.

The average man prefers to think of it as "kidney trouble" and lets it go but the census shows this appalling fact—out of 62,000 deaths from kidney troubles the last census year over nine-tenths of them (58,000) took the form called "Bright's Disease" although it is quite probable that nine-tenths of these up to the last moment thought of it as and called it "kidney trouble" when as a matter of fact the only possible hope laid through a specific for Bright's Disease.

There never was one until Fulton worked out his renal emollient (Fulton's Renal Compound).

Since then inflammation of the kidneys whether albuminous or not or whether called "kidney trouble" or "Bright's Disease" or whether six months or six years old commonly yields. If you have had kidney trouble over six months no matter what you call it it is the only hope. Efficiency 97% where patients do not wait until bedridden although some of them recover. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire to hear from and advise with patients not noting the usual improvement by the third bottle. Literature mailed free. Write to John J. Fulton Co., 616 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal.

J. Pfaff has returned to his work here after a ten days' visit with his parents in Rome City.

J. M. Roarbaugh, of Orangeville, Ohio, is a guest of Mrs. A. B. Calloway. Muriel Clayton entertained twenty-two friends in honor of her sixth birthday. The little folks had a delightful time playing games and the afternoon spent with their playmates was a rare treat to all. Mrs. Clayton served an elegant lunch to the children and Muriel received many little remembrances from them.

Miss Mae Cooke, of Elkhart, who had been visiting friends here a few days, returned home.

Miss B. Mauer, of Oshkosh, is visiting relatives here in the city.

Mrs. C. Moore, who had been visiting friends and relatives the past week, returned to her home at Argos today.

The Phi Delta Kappas have sent out invitations for a dance which will be given this evening in their hall.

Miss Vorn Curtis returned to her home in Gary after a few days' visit with friends here.

BIG HORSE SALE

Held at Columbia City Totaled the Sum of $12,895.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 19.—At the James Galvin and Horn Brothers horse sale held Wednesday in this city, 85 out of 107 horses offered for sale were sold to the highest bidder, and aside from this number quite a few private sales were made which will probably run the total up to 100 horses actually disposed of. The total amount of the sale was $12,895 and aside from this there is no question but that several hundred dollars was spent by the visiting horsemen, which alone represents the fact that the sales are a good thing for the city. Fifty head of horses sold averaged $210 and the other 35 horses disposed of averaged $186. Nat Quinn, of North Manchester, bought twelve of the best horses.

B. & O. ICE HOUSES.

The Railroad Company Got in a Big Supply of Ice.

Garrett, Ind., Jan. 19.—With the aid of a large force of men, the B. & O. put away a season's supply of ice last week. When the cold weather arrived Division Engineer John Tordella, who has charge of the work, took advantage of the situation. He put ninety men on the ice at Lake Wawasee and cut ice by the carload. It was shipped to Garrett, Chicago Junction and South Chicago. A total of 181 carloads went to South Chicago, thirty-five cars to Chicago Junction and thirty cars to Garrett.

Ninety men were used at the lake and about twenty-five more at each ice house. The ice is clear and is from nine to thirteen inches in thickness.

GOOD YEAR FOR GARRETT.

City Finances for 1911 Better Than Any Previous Year.

Garrett, Ind., Jan. 19.—The city business in the year 1911 exceeded that of any previous twelve-month. The increase over the 1910 figures is $3,000. The disbursements show city paid out almost $20,000 during the year for bonded and other indebtedness and for new construction and improvements. The above figures and statements are taken from the report for the year 1911 made by the council finance committee composed of Will Franks, chairman, and C. C. Lindner and Isaac Whitledge.

JOHNSTON WON OUT.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 19.—The hour of account for the vote for sheriff at the Democratic county primary last Saturday completed the work of recounting all of the votes, and the result, as announced above, showed J. A. Johnston the winner of the nomination by a plurality of 11 votes.

MAKES COLD OR GRIPPE VANISH

Most Severe Cold or Grippe Misery Relieved in a Few Hours.

You can surely end Grippe and break up the most severe cold either in head, chest, back, stomach or limbs, by taking a dose of Pope's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless compound as directed, without interference with your usual duties and with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe, and

CONFERENCE DELEGATES.

John W. Sale is Bluffton Delegate to M. E. Conference.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 19.—At the First M. E. church Wednesday evening there was held an election for the purpose of selecting a delegate and an alternate to the lay electoral college which will meet at Warsaw during the annual North Indiana M. E. conference which will convene there March 27. J. W. Sale was elected delegate and A. E. Cline was elected alternate. They were the only candidates nominated. They will support R. S. Todd, of this city, for election as lay delegate to the general conference at Minneapolis.

SOUTH WHITLEY STREETS.

Four of Them Will Be Paved in the Spring.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 19.—The proposed paving of Front, State, Poplar and River streets in South Whitley will be done next spring. At the "kickers" meeting set by the town board for Wednesday night, O. F. Kelly presented a remonstrance, with 39 signatures of property owners affected, but upon the advice of B. E. Gates, of this city, the remonstrance was overruled, not being a majority, and the contract will be let soon.

CHURCH IS SUED.

Pierceton, Ind., Jan. 19.—The Presbyterian church of Pierceton, or rather the trustees of the church, are the defendants in a suit on account filed in the Kosciusko circuit court by LeHow & Son. The complaint states that the Warsaw cement firm did work to the value of $472.45 on the church building, but received only $350 in cash, leaving a balance of $122.45 unpaid.

Plymouth Postoffice Business.

Plymouth, Ind., Jan. 19.—The total receipts of the postoffice at Plymouth for last year were $13,802.85. After paying the office expense, aside from salaries of the rural carriers, the Plymouth office turned over by remittance to Uncle Sam's treasury $3,752.09. The rural delivery service from the office cost $6,886. The postmaster's salary is $2,350 per year.

SCARLET FEVER IN WHITLEY.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 19.—Wilderness school, No. 10, of Cleveland township, was closed Thursday by order of J. E. V. Nolt, county health officer, on account of two of the children of the William Ward family having scarlet fever. They had been attending school several days before the nature of their illness was learned.

GIVES BAND $25 A MONTH.

Kendallville, Ind., Jan. 19.—That a sum of $25 will be given the City band for maintenance, the same as a year ago, was the report made at the council session by Chairman William Rinebolt, of the committee on public works. The band will give weekly concerts during the summer months, the weather permitting.

CHURCH IS OUT OF DEBT.

Decatur, Ind., Jan. 19.—The Presbyterian congregation of this city is facing the new year with a clean slate—every bit of indebtedness for the past year and for all past years, in fact, having been wiped out. Such is the statement of the official board, which held its meeting Wednesday night.

A GOOD MOVE—AHEAD WITH IT.

On the charge of allowing minors to loiter and to play in his pool-room the keeper of one of the larger down town places of the sort has been arraigned in the police court. If the police are able to prove conclusively that he is guilty all the severity the law permits will not be too much. And while the police are at it there should be no resting upon the result of this one case. The city is filled with resorts of this character and in most of them the patronage of minors has been welcomed. We want to repeat that as between the saloon and these pool-rooms in the matter of training youngsters for the devil the pool-room has many advantages. If these places cannot be profitably run without persistent violation of the law, if the patronage of minors is necessary to their existence, then they must be driven out of business. The law is weak in respect of dealing with these pool-rooms. It provides regulations for the business after it is started, but none at all as to the opening of such places. Any one who is able to obtain the equipment may open a pool-room. This is wrong. The law should impose some qualifications and strictly and heavily license these places. The business for the most part has fallen into the worst hands possible. It is interesting to note that the man arrested in the instance under discussion pleaded that he knew so little of the English language that he asked for a continuance to enable him to find out what it was all about. The pool-room evil has grown rapidly in magnitude and viciousness. It is one of the most fertile sources of the misdemeanors and crimes of young boys that can be found. It must be either regulated or exterminated.

GROSS NEGLECT OF GARBAGE.

The garbage situation in Fort Wayne at this time is as bad as it ever was and perhaps it is worse. Only the intensely cold weather of the past two or three weeks has prevented conditions from becoming intolerable. The brief warm spell which followed the prolonged cold wave served to reveal in part what the conditions may rapidly grow to be if there is not some relief. Alleys that ordinarily are fairly clean in respect to garbage are now almost choked with filth. Complaints have reached this office that garbage has not been collected for three weeks. All over the city these conditions, more or less bad, are prevailing. While this situation endures the debate on the garbage collection contract proceeds in leisurely fashion. The bidder for the still unratified contract is the man who holds the old contract. Whether it is the uncertainty that invests his new bid or the impulse of long-practiced custom that may be held to account for the present negligence of overloaded garbage cans and boxes and filth strewn alleys we have no means of knowing and perhaps none of finding out, but we would like to ask the board of public works what is to be done about these conditions. The predicted cold wave may check the ooze and flow of this accumulated waste, but it may have in its wake another thaw. In that case only the flies will be wanting to make the situation complete.

Some months since it was announced that pursuant to a request of the Philanthropic department of the Women's league of this city the board of safety would at once take up the question of appointing a police matron. What has become of that matter? Nothing has been heard of it for many weeks. Whatever reasons there were for a police matron in conditions at the time the matter was taken before the board still exist and they are many. The law, as we understand it, leaves the board with no discretion in this case. It makes it mandatory upon the board to provide the police department with a matron and if that is true, the board ought to explain what special indulgence it has upon which to justify disregard of a plain prescription of the law. The matron ought to be appointed. If the board withholds action because it does not care to appear forced by the women who requested it, then let it act because the law says it shall. That is compulsion enough.

President Taft's special message on efficiency in the government service is timely and strongly presented. Just why the federal government should squander millions of the people's money in red tape and political pensions instead of establishing and maintaining business efficiency in the business departments of the public service no one can say.

It always has been that way, and what in the aggregate a century of such management has cost the people of the country would be appalling if there were any way to arrive at a reliable total. The processes of any change will be slow, tedious and perhaps painful. Congress itself is used to a pretty steady diet of red tape.

Senator Proctor doesn't seem to be sure, but at least thinks he is old enough to run for governor. Even if that were the only obstacle to his nomination a mere shadow of doubt of his eligibility would be sufficient. No party is disposed to hump itself to put a man in the highest office with the contingency ahead that may be thrown out of it. However, Mr. Proctor's running or failure to run will not greatly complicate the gubernatorial situation in Indiana's democratic convention.

The New York police department is waging a war on fortune-tellers, soothsayers, chystal gazers, magic workers and kindred fakirs. This is well enough, but it will cause many persons the deep perplexity of not knowing what to do with the money with which these charlatans have been supported in more or less ease. Necessity, however, will doubtless show them the way. Fortune-telling isn't the only game.

The United Mine Workers have gone Postmaster General Hitchcock several better. They demand the government ownership of all industries, and it may be presumed if the choice of a start on this program were left to them they would pick the coal industry for inauguration of the big scheme. Anything else would make a good second.

A January thaw is the traditional and customary thing, but there is no reason that it should hook onto the heels of two weeks of below-zero weather. There's a missing link in this procession of weather—or the blending medium, if you like that better.

The length of time it is taking the Chinese dynasty to make up its mind whether or not to go is not extremely puzzling. The lady member of the imperial party is important enough to have a good deal to say and she has the prerogatives of her sex.

It is given out from Washington that the government does not now believe it will have to intervene again in Cuba. Certainly not, if that threat was expected to have any effect at all.

Governor Wilson's dilemma seems to have been to get himself saved from his friends and he even had to go out and do it himself.

A GAME OVERPLAYED.

(Washington Star.)

The republicans may find some assurance and satisfaction in the fact that the theme of Roosevelt is being greatly overworked. It is a lemping theme, and lends itself to invention and rumor-mongering. An interesting man, altogether out of the common, even extravagant things said about him carry far in the daily news. Things which, if said about another man of political eminence, would fall of their own weight and improbability rise for a time rather persuasively when said about the ex-president.

And characteristically, Mr. Roosevelt's temper encourages the fakery. They find it easy "to get a rise out of him." Long as he has been in public life, high as he has risen there, and numerous as have been his controversies, he keeps close track of all that is said about him, and jumps at, and on, any public statement which he thinks puts him in the wrong. If he were but a year old in politics, and figuring on office for the first time, he could not be more sensitive.

So the merry whirl goes on. The Roosevelt calling list is closely scanned. Did Mr. X call today? He is a progressive, and, of course, talked anti-Taft and had strict attention. Did Mr. Y call? He is a conservative, and, of course, talked Taft, but was coldly received. Did Mr. Z call? He is betwixt and between, and was seeking a tip about the Roosevelt drift, but failed to get it. He will call again. And so on.

Did Mr. Roosevelt lunch with a friend? He laid plans for getting into the game against the president. Did he lunch in company at a club? He took the company into his confidence about his intentions as to his party's presidential nomination. And so on.

Oyster Bay is camping ground again for a platoon of bright newspaper writers who know their business and what they are there for. Mr. Roosevelt's comings and goings—and much more—are recorded with the color and suggestion that belong to the assignment. That familiar date line has come into its own again. For full eight years it carried a varied line of very readable matter, and it is now carrying more of the same kind. It is not difficult for an Oyster Bay story to find first page space in any live newspaper office.

THE BEEF RING'S METHODS.

(Indianapolis News.)

The testimony in the beef packing trial at Chicago is its own commentary. It shows in many ways how the packers arrived by a system of bookkeeping at a showing that the dressed meat industry had not been lucrative for years. Memory does not have to be very precise to recall such statements from time to time. There was a system of inflated costs and a string of subsidiary corporations, through which most of the profits were realized, to substantiate such showing. One item was the penning and feeding of cattle. The cost of this was charged against the dressed carcasses, but no credit was made for the charge when the burden of it was placed on the shipper. So the charge was double, once against the farmer and once against the dressed meat. Again there were the "killing" charges, which were apparently advanced from time to time according as it was judged that the traffic would bear them, making altogether an increase in this cost of 175 per cent. in the last twenty years in spite of improved methods. It was all, as it looks now, simply a matter of bookkeeping. And when this sort of thing is begun the items or particular methods really amount to nothing. For instance, at one time hides were allowed to figure in the cost. Then they were not. The drift of questions by the government whether the cost price was not purely arbitrary and fixed without regard to the actual cost seems to be pertinent. The testimony that we have quoted answers in the affirmative. Whether it was done by verbal order or by sham bookkeeping amounts to nothing. The fact remains that thus far a pretended cost has been used to justify the prices charged. The only wonder is that any pretense was deemed necessary. The beef ring had the power and it could use it directly as well as indirectly if it chose. One thing is plain, that this trial is "striking pay dirt" very nearly in the proceedings. A people that can not protect themselves against a condition shown even thus far to exist here, do not deserve protection.

Describing a map of Indiana, issued in 1831, an Indianapolis newspaper says that at that time there were but two counties organized north of Allen. These were St. Joseph and Elkhart. There were, of course, no railroads, but the map shows great stretches of water in Northern Indiana, which the maps of the present day do not show, the Kankakee ponds being all but obliterated. The new gas well on Hanna street is down 550 feet. It was so cold Monday

CATHOLIC ORPHAN HOMES.

Directors of Institutions of This Diocese Met at Lafayette.

The directors of the Catholic orphanages of Fort Wayne diocese held their annual meeting at the St. Joseph orphanage in Lafayette this week. Eighteen members were present and the Rt. Rev. Herman J. Alarding, bishop of the diocese and president of the board, presided. The old officers were re-elected, viz.: President and treasurer, Bishop Alarding; secretary, Rev. W. C. Miller, of Fort Wayne. Secretary Miller reported that there are 106 girls in St. Vincent orphanage at Fort Wayne and Director Seimetz reported that there are 100 boys in St. Joseph orphanage. There was one death in the last named institution. In 1911, improvements to the value of $40,000 have been made and steps will be taken to raise enough money to meet the obligation. Thanks were extended the physicians of Lafayette and Fort Wayne for services rendered the orphans. After the business session the visiting members of the board were entertained at an elaborate dinner by Director Seimetz.

THE CHURCH IS SUED.

By South Bend Organist, Who Wants $450 for Services.

Alleging that there is due him from the St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church in South Bend, the sum of $450 for services as organist during the months of September, October, November and December, Alexander Markivitch filed suit in the superior court at South Bend against Rt. Rev. Herman J. Alarding, of Fort Wayne, bishop of the diocese, to recover the money.

According to the complaint the plaintiff was employed as the organist in the church at a salary of $75 a month. He worked four months for which he received no payment, he declares.

Benefit Card Party.

The Ladies' Rosary society of the Cathedral is planning a large benefit card party which they will give on Feb. 7 at the Library hall. The afternoon will be devoted to bridge and pedro, in order that all may enjoy the hours, and the proceeds gathered from the sale of the score cards will be used for charity.

LEFT BECAUSE OF CIVIL WAR

Hannah Smith, Quaker Minister Who Quit America, Dies in England.

WROTE FAMOUS BOOK

London, Jan. 19.—A famous Quaker preacher of other days, Mrs. Hannah Whitehall Smith, has passed away.

She came to England from Philadelphia some fifty years ago and with her Quaker husband, Dr. Robert Pearson Smith, conducted open-air religious meetings on the country estates of old aristocracy, attracting thousands of persons, some of whom came from remote parts of the United Kingdom and some even from France. Lord Palmerston's country house and grounds were often used for these gatherings, and he and Lady Palmerston were devoted to the zealous young Quakers, both of whom were rich and with excellent social connections in England, but who dedicated their lives to doing good.

As Quakers they did not believe in the use of arms, even to bring freedom to the American slaves, and therefore remained in England for the period of the Civil war. Dr. Smith died there not many years later and his widow never returned to her native land, becoming absorbed in the English temperance crusade. For many years she was afflicted with an incurable disease of the hip which made her lame.

Book of Her Children Popular.

When her children were young she wrote for them "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life," copies of which sold in America by the thousands through many editions, and which were translated into almost every language of Europe, even the Finnish and Lapland tongues. It attracted the attention of Queen Victoria, who, through the Palmerstons, sent Mrs. Smith many messages of encouragement in her religious work.

Her fortune was practically at the disposal of the temperance leaders. She was a member of the Executive Council of the Women's Temperance Union for many years and in spite of her lameness and the increasing feebleness of years she seldom missed a great rally of the temperance party, her simple Quaker costume, and her face framed in snow white hair attracting much attention.

Her daughters were sent to America to be educated and were graduated from Smith college. The younger one, Alys, married, in 1894, the Hon. Bertrand Arthur Russell, the brother and heir presumptive of Earl Russell, whose sensational matrimonial ventures have from time to time absorbed the interest of the English nation and the disciplinary powers of the House of Lords.

Ignored Titled Relatives.

Earl Russell and his brother are grandsons of the famous Prime Minister, Lord John Russell, the third son of the sixth Duke of Bedford, who was created an Earl by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Smith was therefore, through her daughter's marriage, a connection of the present Duke and Duchess of Bedford, but neither she nor Mrs. Bertrand Russell were ever friendly with the Duke and Duchess, being pronounced Socialists and antagonistic to the concentration of too much wealth and power in the old English families.

The present Countess Russell was a good-looking seamstress in Mrs. Smith's house when Earl Russell first met her. Mrs. Smith being democratic enough to present her to the young nobleman.

Of late years Mrs. Smith had lived in retirement on a country estate near Oxford. Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Russell making their home with her. The elder daughter married the well-known English art critic, Beringer, and lives in Florence.

The family's London house is in the quaint residence district near Westminster Abbey, but it had not been used by Mrs. Smith for years, although Mr. and Mrs. Russell generally spend a few months there in the spring.

Urging the extension of lighting service along country highways, and in small villages, the Electrical Review says:

"The tendency of the times is toward better street illumination; real estate values rise and outside residents are attracted by it; and apart from the reduction of accidents and the improved conditions of public safety afforded, the rural community finds itself acquiring a reasonable sum yearly to meeting the lighting problem with courage and far-sightedness."

The German railways in Africa already authorized, including those in operation, amount to 2,685 miles, of which 733 miles are in East Africa, 322 miles in Kamerun, 201 miles in Togo, and 1,318 miles in Southwest Africa. Of this mileage, 2,131 miles are in operation, of which 444 miles have been opened to traffic since the beginning of the year.

"The PRISONER'S FATHER"

The Greater Tragedy Behind All Tragedies

When Albert Wolter was convicted of killing Ruth Wheeler his old father, a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war, felt the blow as a long-delayed retribution for the one great sin of his life, and so expressed himself. Albert was the child of a woman Carl Albert Wolter had known in Germany. Deserting the mother and baby, the elder Wolter had come to America and wedded another woman. She had died and he, stricken by remorse, had sent for the mother and child to join him in America and had legitimized the one by wedding the other.

"The Sins of the Fathers."

And now this child had committed a murder so fiendish in its horror that the old Prussian soldier bowed his head under the shock and murmured words about the sins of the fathers being visited upon their children.

Another case was that of Gen. Jeremiah V. Messerole of Brooklyn, whose son, Darwin J. Messerole, killed Theodore W. Larbig in a fight. The old soldier fought bravely to save his son and the verdict of acquittal, followed as it was by the young man's conversion and reception into Plymouth church, was balm to the father's wounded heart.

There can scarcely be a doubt about the grizzled Confederate veteran, Col. T. V. Richeson, believing in his son's innocence. But the tragedy of such an accusation against a dearly beloved son is less only than that of his conviction.

These fathers whose gray hairs are brought down in sorrow to the grave, as the patriarch Jacob expressed it, are tragic figures. They appeal for sympathy, but their weight of woe is too heavy to be alleviated by words. New York World.

Odd Manners.

Mourning the loss of old-time manners, an aged Englishman said the other day: "Boys are not like they used to be. If they do not like a schoolmaster they show it nowadays by treating him with studiously cold politeness. Why, I remember when I was at Eaton a lot of us getting hold of a master who taught us mathematics and whom we all cordially detested, and holding him by his heels over Barnes' pool bridge until we saw in the distance another master coming in our direction, when we gently loosed our victim and let him slide headforemost into the water."

A New York man writes: "I was taught to offer my seat to ladies when traveling. I foolishly did so a few days ago in the subway. All I got in return from the lady was a glassy stare, a devilish grin and 'Oh, sit down, my boy. I don't want your seat.' And I am just thirty!"

In the Society Islands two persons on meeting salute by rubbing the ends of their noses together, and the salutation is followed by each taking the hand of the other and rubbing it upon his own nose and mouth.

Moors of Morocco ride at full speed toward a stranger, as if they intended to run him down, and as soon as they have approached near they suddenly stop and fire a pistol over his head.

No Use for Molly.

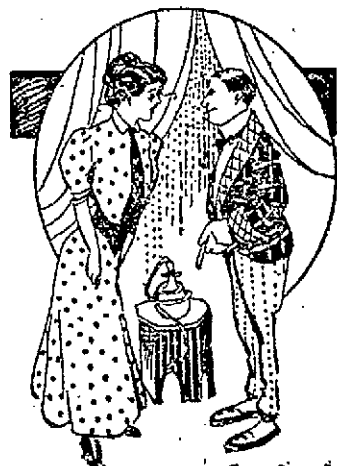

Admiral Schley, as his own splendid career showed, didn't believe in automotons, said a Washington veteran. "He didn't believe in the subordinate who lets his boss do all the thinking for him. I once heard Admiral Schley talking to a young Annapolis student. He told the student that unreasoning and unquestioning obedience to orders was, if the orders were wrong, a foolish thing. He said the navy had no more use for men of that stamp than the Widow Black had for her maid Molly."

"The widow, he explained, told Molly one evening that if any one called she was only at home to Mr. Munn. Then she retired to her room and took a little nap. On toward ten o'clock she awoke and, ringing for Molly, she asked: 'Did any one call?' "Oh, yes, ma'am," said Molly. "Mrs. Blank called, and Miss Dash, and the pastor."

"And you told them what I told you to?" "Yes, ma'am. I said you was only at home to Mr. Munn."

University Uses Experimental Cottage So that the work of the housewife may be reduced to the minimum, an experimental cottage—not a "model" cottage—has been fitted up by the department of home economics under Prof. Abby L. Marlatt of the University of Wisconsin for laboratory work in house management, dietetics, home nursing and house decoration. Much of the decoration is supplied from the textile laboratory, so that the expense is somewhat similar to that of the private home. The first floor bedroom of an ordinary cottage was changed into a kitchenette, so that the pantry now lies between the kitchenette and dining-room, which was the old kitchen. The basement, freshly concreted, is divided into a cold storeroom, a laundry and a furnace room.

THE STRANGE COINCIDENCES OF SOLDIERS' SONS

FATHER.
Col. T. V. Richeson,
Confederate veteran.

Gen. Peter C. Hains,
veteran of the Civil war.

Gen. Edward L. Molineux,
veteran of the Civil war.

Gen. Jeremiah V. Messerole,
veteran of the Civil war.

Carl Albert Wolter, veteran of the Franco-Prussian war.

SON.

The Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, arrested on suspicion after the death of Avis
Linnell by poison.

Capt. Peter C. Haines, who was sent to prison for killing W. C. Annis.
Roland B. Molineux, charged with killing Mrs. Adams; first convicted but later acquitted.

Darwin J. Messerole, tried for killing
Theodore W. Larbig, but acquitted.
Albert Wolter, convicted for murdering Ruth Wheeler.

WHEN the aged father of the Rev. C. V. T. Richeson fell upon his son's neck in the prison at Boston, and the two men sobbed in each other's arms, a tragedy deeper and more heart-rending than even that which led to the death of poor Avis Linnell.

"My boy! My boy!" cried the father in his anguish. Almost the words which the breaking of King David's heart was registered for all time when they brought him word of the death of his erring son Absalom.

"Deal gently with the young man," the old king had said to the soldiers he sent out to capture the rebellious youth. And, when divine justice cut him off in his sins, David cried, "Oh! Absalom, my son, my son!"

Through the ages this cry has rung. It has burst from the heart of almost every father whose son has committed crime.

Much is written and said about the weeping mother of the son who goes wrong—a figure full of pathos that outshades itself forcibly, often overshadowing the equally pathetic figure of the father of the prisoner, for a man's grief, though no less deep than a woman's, clamors not from the house-tops, but broods in the dark silences of the heart.

Father's Grief Worse.

A mother's grief differs from a father's in this—that she, in spite of overwhelming evidence, can never believe her son to be guilty. Thus her passionate tears are those of rebellion against injustice to one who is near to her. She will fight, as the mothers of Carlyle Harris and Harry Thaw fought, to save their sons from what they believed an unjust fate. A father, on the contrary, may know his son to be guilty. He may be obliged to let the law take its course, to sit silently alone at home when his son is being led to the gallows or the electric chair, knowing that the boy so dear to him is meeting a just fate. In cases like this—and they are by no means exceptional—the father's grief transcends in its miserable tragedy even that of the weeping mother.

The figure of Judge Paul Charlton quietly coming to the aid of his son when the young man returned home almost boasting of having killed his wife in Italy had something awe-inspiring in its finality. Here was a highly respected man, of good southern family, who had attained a position of trust and responsibility in the service of his country, who had brought up a bright boy, with all the care and solicitude of a refined home.

lavishing affection upon him, hoping great things for him, and suddenly all these hopes were swept away and in their place he must needs forge for himself a solitary grim hope—that of saving the boy from the disgrace of a murderer's death.

Gen. Hains' Pathetic Figure.

Another heroic figure—heroic because of the way it stood firm in the tempest of tragedy swept about it—was that of Gen. Peter C. Hains, father of Capt. Peter C. Hains and Thornton Hains. When Capt. Hains killed the man he believed had wrecked his home, and he and his brother were accused of conspiring together to commit murder, the old father's fighting blood rose and he turned like an old lion to defend his cubs. In his eyes his son's deed was justified. This point of view was shared by a large number of people, women as well as men. That he saved his sons from the grip of the law was a triumph for him, but the triumph only attenuated the grief that the killing had laid upon him.

So it was with gallant old Gen. Molineux. He, however, was spared the grim horror of knowledge of a son's guilt, for he firmly believed in Roland's innocence of the murder, and his fight for the youth's acquittal was urged on not only by affection but by confidence in the triumph of justice.

Another father who was buoyed up to the last by faith in his boy's innocence was A. F. Tucker, whose son Charles was put to death for killing Mabel Page. To the very last he was firm in this faith. He kept up the fight to prove his son innocent right to the hour of execution, and in one of his petitions to the governor for clemency he expressed in a sentence the tragedy of the parent whose son is accused of a grave crime: "Our hearts are bursting with anguish."

Such a case as this was that of Henry Clay Beattie, the Richmond banker, whose son has been convicted of murdering his young wife. He kept up the fight, having appealed for a new trial, without result. The father's heart must be wrung with grief over the wild career that led his wayward son into these direful straits.

Much was written about Carlyle Harris' mother when that boy was on trial for killing his young wife, and old Charles Harris, the father, was mentioned only incidentally. Back into the shadows cast by the unsuccessful wife sank the figure of the unsuccessful old man. Nobody paid any attention to him. He was alone with his great sorrow.

When Dr. Crippen was being hunted, tried and put to death for killing his wife a lonely old man in California followed the reports of the case with trembling interest. Myron A. Crippen was too old to be of any help to the son who had left him long ago. Though unheralded, the greater tragedy was the father's, not the son's.

MEETING AT GRAND RAPIDS CHUCK FULL OF BUSINESS FORM OPENING

Magnates Were in Session All the Time and the League Has Better Prospects Than at Any Time in History of the Organization.

By CHAS. H. SPAULDING.
More business was transacted during the Grand Rapids session of the Greater Central league directors than at any gathering in the history of the league. In former years a hasty checking of the secretary's report, a banquet, sundry visits to the department of the hotel presided over by gentlemen of urbane manners and white jackets and a resolution of thanks and expressions of confidence in the president and the departure for home constituted the entire business.

An hour after the arrival of the magnates on Wednesday morning they were in session, a short adjournment at noon, an afternoon business session that lasted until 6 o'clock, dinner, another session at night and one that opened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning was the program.

For a salary of $3,000 Dr. F. R. Carson will give his entire attention to league affairs. This means that he will make the circuit, learn by personal observation all of the kinks in the playing end of the game and be in position to straighten them out. He will be paid in addition enough to hire a secretary and a stenographer.

The doctor wants to make this a good year in baseball. He has raised the standard in the league but it has never made any more money and he will be on his mettle as it is up to him to show that his theories are well grounded. He must stand or fall by his record of 1912.

The latter part of the present week Dr. Carson will visit Wheeling and ascertain what B. F. Perkins and W. W. Irwin intend to do with the franchise. There will be no dilly dallying with the owners. They must put up their $2,000, put it up at once and get busy on their team.

The Central league owns the territory and it is valuable and the owners will be awakened to the fact. The league can not take away the grounds belonging to the club owners but it can take the territory when it is able to show that it is being damaged by the indifference of the club owners.

On the same trip the doctor will go to Erie to see what the matter is there. Nobody represented the club at the meeting and nothing was heard from the owners. The deposits had not been put up and the owners will be jogged up a bit. Erie is a good town and the Central league will use every effort to get it in the fold.

An unconfirmed report reached the magnates that the team is for sale and the president will investigate this on his trip.

At the eleventh hour Zanesville got in the fold. A telephone message to Dr. Carson announced late Wednesday night that the deposit was all ready and a certified check for it had been mailed. This settles all questions there as the directors would never have put up so much good coin unless they had expected to stick through.

In checking over the reports for the year it was found that the league lost about $8,000 through the failure of Harley Parker and Aggie Grant to meet their obligations. This will not occur again.

A rule has been incorporated in the constitution by which every player is required to notify the president of the league at any time his salary is five days over due. Then the directors can take up and investigate the situation and remedy it before a team is thrown upon the shoulders of the league.

There will be one standard of prices all over the league. Twenty-five cents for bleacher seats and fifty cents for grandstand will prevail all over the circuit and there will be no departure from this rule. In some cities heretofore

PLAYERS RUINED BY AN INCREASE

Form New Associations and Do Not Give the Best Services.

WATKINS IS PLEASED

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 13.—W. H. Watkins, owner of the Springfield franchise in the Greater Central league, is one of the men who believes that good base ball can be supplied the patrons under the $2,000 salary limit proposed by the organization.

"In my long experience I have had more than a hundred ball players spoiled by going up too fast in the game. I mean by that that increased salaries have really kept them down."

"Take a young player for $125 a month; he has his heart and soul in the game and so long as his pay is raised gradually he will give good service, but jump him to $200, he forms new associations and is taking so much of his time spending his money, which comes so easily, that he is out of condition half the time."

"If the same player had gone up to the increased salary by easy stages he would have been a hundred per cent. better off as prosperity would not have turned his head. With the salary limit fixed by the league the owners will have more ambitious youngsters in the game and the quality of ball will be better because they are on the way up instead of down and will be out on the field trying all the time."

"Most of these youngsters who have been spoiled have come back in the course of time, but they have really been hurt by getting on too fast and you mark my word the Central league will have the best ball this year it has ever seen."

Twenty years of success in base ball gives weight to Mr. Watkins' opinion. He has amassed a goodly competence in the game, has been player, manager and owner, has looked at the great sport from all its angles and is in position to know what he is talking about.

He is highly pleased with the twelve-club circuit. There will be a continual change of faces which he thinks will keep up the interest until the very close of the season.

Mr. Watkins is not pleased with the interseasonal schedule. He says that when the western clubs go east and the eastern clubs west they will have to play in every city in each section, but he is not in favor of keeping them apart until the fourth of July.

Mr. Watkins proposed a new scheme at the meeting. His proposition is to have Dayton and Springfield play alternately each day they are scheduled together. If there is a six or eight game series the clubs will play one day in Dayton and the next at Springfield. There has always been bitter rivalry between the two cities and it is the purpose of the league to rekindle this and keep it alive in the interest of the game.

Prices have ranged from a quarter to seventy-five cents but all will be the same in the future.

In W. H. Watkins and J. A. (Bobby) Quinn the Central league has two valuable additions. Mr. Watkins is a successful baseball man of wide experience, excellent judgment and foresight, a man who makes baseball his sole business and who knows it from all its angles.

He has a lot of personal magnetism in spite of a rather gruff manner and the best compliment that can be paid him is that the men who play ball for him say he is a prince.

Quinn knows the game (too). He is high in the councils of the Columbus club, is known wherever baseball is known and is in a position to give a lot of first aid in emergencies.

GROUP OF MAGNATES IN ATTENDANCE AT THE CENTRAL LEAGUE MEETING SENATOR BEHIND THE NEW HURLER

Coal Mine Prodigy Highly Recommended by Senator Watson.

VARNELL IN THE CITY

When P. H. Danley, Gypsy, W. V. Varnell, who is in the Fort Wayne next spring and begins the operation of getting his three squares at the expense of whoever owns the Fort Wayne baseball club at that time, he will come with the recommendation of a United States senator behind him.

This got him the job but it will not hold it for him unless he can pitch baseball of the Central league brand. In most lines the recommendation of a member of the senate means that the beneficiary will stick around whether he is needed or not because he may be able to exercise a peculiar influence that is sometimes useful.

In baseball it is different. The man is thrown on his own resources and must deliver the goods to win. There are no sinecures on the playing end of the great game and Mr. Danley must be there with something that will cause the manager to sit up and take notice.

The fellow is a coal miner and Gypsy is the name of the village in which he sees daylight on Sundays. He goes into the bowels of the earth before daylight in the morning, comes out after night-fall and has grown weary of the occupation and seeks baseball honors. To hear him tout the public would think he had everything a young pitcher needs but what he really has will not be known until Frank Shaughnessy looks him over in April.

Claude H. Varnell, owner of the optioned Fort Wayne ball team was in the city last night for a couple of hours waiting for a train to take him to his home at Wheeling. He came here to make a railroad connection and announced that no matter whether he sells out or not he will be here for the schedule meeting on Feb. 21.

"Well, I didn't think I would feel like I do about selling the club," he said. "Now, that it is practically sold I feel 'kinder' homesick about it, but probably it will do better under home ownership. If it is not sold I know the report that it was offered will be hard on me."

"I can go out and sell it to some big league club for a farm, but I don't like that sort of thing and if the man who has asked and obtained an option on it doesn't take it I guess I will hold on and give up the Providence deal."

At Lee Irvin's store last night where Mr. Varnell stopped for a short time to shake hands with his friends, great regret was expressed that he had practically disposed of the club and the owner was deeply touched by the expressions of friendship that greeted him on all sides.

In the same breath the same people took occasion to say that the club can not fall into better hands than those of Bert Dennis. Just at this time it looks like he will be the business head of the concern and this means that the game will be maintained on the high plane established by Mr. Varnell.

Dennis started out today and held conferences with the business men who have announced their willingness to take a canvass indicated that he would be able to swing the deal successfully.

His business connections are good and if the men who have encouraged him in the project get behind it there will be plenty of money back of the organization. The first step will be an application for a charter and the organization of a stock company.

ATTELL DECLARED THE WINNER.

Beat Knockout Brown in Ten Rounds Before New York Club.

New York, Jan. 13.—Before the National Sporting club Abe Attell bested Knockout Brown in a ten-round go last night. The featherweight champ was groggy at the end of the fourth, but he called in his reserve power in the latter rounds and when Brown emerged from a nap in the tenth he was bleeding at the nose and groggy. Popular verdict gave Attell the decision.

TOTS GET CANTWELL.

Grand Rapids, Jan. 13.—Tom Cantwell, pitcher for the Evansville club last season, was purchased from Newark, N. J., late Wednesday by owner Wagner, of Terre Haute, and will pitch for the Tots next season. Cantwell was drafted by the International league club.

BERGHOFFS MOVE TOWARD THE TOP

Take Three Games from the White Fruit House to Close Week.

REXALLS WIN THREE

By taking three straight games from the White Fruit House squad at the Metropolitan alleys last night the Berghoff bowlers made a move toward the top of the per centage column, gaining a little on the leaders and taking a position that got them in striking distance.

Ed Harknerider got back into his stride and also jumped up a few points in per centage by bowling better than 900 in his three games. His best effort was 222. Williams, the new member, maintained a good average and was second high.

Frankie led the losing club with a near-double for his best effort. He fell a pin short of 200 in the last game and beat out Knoll who had the best mark up to that time. The scores:

GAMES ARE POSTPONED.

Death of Bowler Causes Break in the Brunswick Schedule.

The death of Herman Limbach, a member of the City Coal and Supply company's team of the first Brunswick league, caused a postponement of the game scheduled last night. In the second league series the Meyer Rexalls had little trouble defeating the Schuberts. Signist registered 214 and led the league.

FOUR MEN IN A TIE.

Ed Dale, Frank Smith, Dan Long and Tuttle were the winners in their respective divisions of the roller skating races at the Princess rink last night and the champion will challenge Sluider, the city champion.

The results of last night's races were as follows: First heat, Ed Dale winner; time, 4:00. Second heat, Frank Smith, 4:02. Third heat, Dan Long, 3:50. Fourth heat, Tuttle, 3:52.

Following the races the judges ruled that Frank Smith had fouled George Long and these two will race again next Thursday.

The others who were entered in the races were L. Orr, D. Lewis, O. Ormsby, E. Slater, O. Roland, C. Sorenson, Ed Lepper, C. Krudger, Dale Pharr, Charles Ludwig, Ralph Ormsby, F. M. Caskey, Joe Bell, Kenneth Dubrow.

"BOB" GROGAN MAY GO.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 13.—On Monday "Bobby" Grogan, a Central league veteran, will probably be traded or sold by the local club. The acquisition of "Speed" Hall, of the Three-I league hints at Grogan's passing.

NATIONAL COMMISSION SHOULD TAKE CHARGE OF MANUFACTURE OF BALLS

There is considerable interest among ball players, especially the 300 hitters and the pitchers, as to the composition of the ball that will be declared "official" next year. The new lively ball that was tried last year remains one of the mysteries of the game. As far as can be ascertained, no one ordered it, and no one ordered it changed and made less lively. The ball, with which both leagues and some of the minors started last season made a joke of baseball. It increased hitting, it is true, but it went so fast when hit that the infielders, and often the outfielders, had scarcely a chance to move.

As a result the National league made a change in the ball early in the season, using one that was not nearly so lively, and apparently the American league changed later. There were spasms of games later when it seemed that the livelier ball was in use, and the players declared that the balls varied greatly. The dealers positively that the balls are absolutely uniform and that they are rigidly inspected, weighed, measured and tested before being packed for use and sealed with the official stamps.

There is much complaint among minor league managers about the ball allotment to them and they state, or some of them do, that they get balls not up to the major league standard.

It would seem that, as the ball is one of the most important things in the game and likely, by its speed or "deadness," to make or mar a game or an entire season, the national commission should take some step to insure uniformity and to make certain that the balls sent to one club are exactly the same as those sent to others.

The leagues themselves should supervise the making of the balls used by them instead of allowing the factory to sign the name of the president of the league with a rubber stamp.

The national commission, after hard and strenuous work, discovered exactly what every man who was in New York or Philadelphia during the world's series "scandal" is officially and I suppose sincerely sincere in the first place. Hornum and Brush and Harry Stevens and Tom Lynch didn't want the truth—at least not the whole truth—to come out. Neither did Gray, Johnson's object in wanting it to come out was entirely selfish.

The truth is that ticket scalping is indulged in regularly whenever there are "suckers" enough who will pay two or three prices for seats, and when there are persons with "pulls" strong enough to get tickets. It always will be so.

The "public," which is much puffed as being "defrauded," hasn't any complaint. If that portion of the public that could not attend the game felt hurt at the time, it probably has forgotten its disappointment and saved the money. Those who paid two or three prices do not deserve sympathy. So far as it appears on the surface, the "scandal" hurt baseball in general, and from expressions I have heard the subsequent events hurt the American league quite as much as it did the National.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 13.—Old players in the Central league are adjusting themselves to new salary conditions right off the reel or they will have a hard time with the club owners.

In spite of the opposition the lower limit scheme has met the owners have pledged themselves to stick by it and every club will be on the same footing so that hold-outs will affect the whole lot. Most of the objection will come from the men who have failed in faster companies and have found their niche in class B baseball.

Every owner is fortifying himself with young talent expecting that some of his men will refuse for a time to sign but he is confident that the whole lot will be back in harness before the season is fairly started. When the holdouts finally report they will not draw pay until they are in condition and this may prompt some of them to get in while the getting is good.

There will be no declaration of war. Contracts will be sent out just as soon as the meeting here is over and the men will be offered as much as the owners can afford to pay them and they will have to sign or stay out of the game.

"This league is infested," said one owner, "with a lot of players who are out soldiering all the time and looking for a job if a dozen or so of these men would quit and refuse to sign contracts the league would be better off."

"I have been handling baseball players a long time and I never saw one of them satisfied except he was a youngster just coming in and making good. Whether we pay them $100 a month or $500 they will be growing just the same."

"Now, I am certain that when this element is rooted out of the Central league it will be better off. There is a class of players who knock the very men who are providing bread and butter for them and they are disturbers.

"Class B ball has gone too fast. Salaries have been boosted and another year like the last three would have wiped it out of existence. The owners are bound to retreat and the players ought to appreciate the fact because they know the financial end of the game well enough to know that the club owners have not made any money but have been sinking it year after year and the end was bound to come."

If the general public thinks that there will be an adjustment without a merry little war it is mistaken. Owners know there will be trouble and they are preparing to stave it off. There are no contracts running more than a year at a time so that none of the owners is tied up by any obligations that ran beyond the close of last season.

In the course of a few years, it is confidently expected by the men who were here at this meeting, there will be a revival of interest and the game will gradually work its way up to where the break came. There will always, however, be a careful inspection of receipts and expenses and every energy will be devoted to placing the game on a sound financial basis.

SAYLOR DECLARED WINNER.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13.—Today fight fans have increased confidence in Young Saylor, who got the popular decision last night over Freddie Kelly. For a time Saylor's friends were afraid he was going back, but in last night's bout he showed to good advantage.

COXONER SAYS MURDER.

Marion, Ark., Jan. 13.—That William Razor, immigration agent of Rockport, Ind., was murdered by persons unknown and his body thrown into a small lake near Marion, was declared by a coroner's jury, which completed an inquest last night. The man's body was found floating in the pool today. Razor had been missing since December 20 last. At the time of his disappearance he was en route to Embuden, Ark., where he intended to locate.

ERIE OWNERS TO QUIT BASE BALL

Did Not Attend the Grand Rapids Meeting and Say They Will Sell Out.

CARSON IS COMING

Erie, Pa., Jan. 13.—Dr. F. R. Carson, president of the Central league, is expected here the first of next week to straighten out the local baseball tangle and this undoubtedly means new ownership here.

Although a report was sent out from Grand Rapids that the Erie men were there studying the situation with a view of buying the franchise nobody there saw or heard of them and they are not known to have left here.

"We are out of baseball for good," said Charles Mertens, who, with Jacob Roth, operated the local franchise under two owners in the Ohio and Pennsylvania league, yesterday. "The franchise has been on the market since the close of the season and we had hopes of some party in this city taking it over. So far none has made an offer. We do not care who buys it up, just so it is taken off our hands. We are through."

It has been known for several months that Mertens and Roth would retire, chiefly because of the stress of their private businesses. One or two local parties have made known their intentions of buying up the franchise, but the price they claimed was too high. The figure asked was $3,000, and does not include the baseball plant.

According to reports, Erie is badly wanted in the Central league, as it is known that with a first-class team representing this city the league would be given a big boost. In the event that the party now on the trail of the franchise fails to connect, and no other offers are made, the club will be thrown upon the league. This, in the opinion of interested people, will be a blow to the new 12-club league and anything but a good augury for its future.

The passing of the Ohio and Pennsylvania league was heard in Erie with scarcely a ripple. Its rocky career last year foretold the beginning of the end. A stir was created when Erie was admitted to the Central league, and this too, without the consent of the hands of Mertens and Roth were manifested a sort of damper was thrown around the whole works.

Perhaps one object in the way of well meaning baseball boosters is the $2,000 which must be dropped into the coffers of the Central league. This forfeit, the $3,000 asked by the present owners, would make the Erie club, if it finished in the second division, which would be seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh or twelfth, one large, juicy lemon. For it is too well known to mention that a second rate team could be given a second reception soon after the season opened.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LEAGUE WAS BAD

Dr. F. R. Carson, president of the Central league and one of the members of the arbitration board of the National association, tells a funny story of a player who put in two seasons at Fort Kearney, Neb., and then asked for his release. The player's story is as follows:

"In 1910 I worked all season for the club and at the end of the schedule I figured that I had a nice little sum of money coming to me and I asked for it. The directors told me to wait around a day or two and they would balance the books and pay me."

"At the end of a couple of days they called me in and showed me that I was mistaken according to their books. I scratched my head and thought it all over. There it was in black and white and there was nothing for me to do but give up my claim and I did so and went back to my home in Chicago."

"At the end of 1911 the same thing occurred. I had kept a little better tab and I was certain that I had money coming to me and I was again told to wait until the books had been checked and then I would be taken care of."

"Believe me or not, gentlemen, when that board of directors got through with me I had been taken over a lot of figures that showed I had drawn all my salary. Well, I ain't so much at figuring but I got out a pencil and a piece of paper and went over the season and when I got through I was still certain the club owned me money."

"I went to the directors again and when I got away they had convinced me a third time I was wrong. Now, I expect to get any money but I would like to have my release. I find that I can't make any money playing in a Christian Science league where they can make you believe you are paid when you ain't."

WAGE WAR ON DEATH CHAIR

Declare It is Only for the chusetts.

OTHERS ESCAPE IT

Greenfield, Mass., Jan. 19.—Cumulative evidence that the Massachusetts capital punishment law as at present administered results in injustice in one or more cases annually may cause the legislature to repeal it.

Massachusetts has on its hands the disposition of three murderers—Phelps, Spencer and Richeson—whose crimes attracted national attention. Silas N. Phelps resisted a sheriff who invaded his home before dawn; Spencer, "Gentleman Burglar," killed Miss Martha B. Blackstone; Richeson's crime is still fresh in everybody's memory.

Phelps, deprived in childhood of the commonest advantages, bounded in youth by petty constables for offenses which he did not commit, grew up to regard officers of the law as his natural enemies, but he resisted the law only in the defense of his home which, in his limited schooling, he had been taught was a "freeman's castle" and that without a warrant no officer had a right to cross its threshold.

In June of 1910 newspapers teemed with accounts of the murder of Sheriff E. F. Haskins of Charlemont in an attempt to arrest Phelps, who, it was stated, had committed a murderous assault upon the superintendent of a paper mill in Monroe Bridge. A year later Phelps was tried for murder in Greenfield. His only defense was that he was protecting his home. A farmer jury retired to the jury room and after sufficient time had elapsed to comply with the requirements of decency fled into court and reported a verdict of murder in the first degree.

But for the interest of Gov. Foss, Phelps would have been electrocuted last week. The governor's influence was not sufficient to prevail upon a council of opposite political faith to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, but it did avail to get a reprieve until midnight of January 20. Extenuating circumstances have appeared in connection with the killing of Sheriff Haskins. Phelps, it is now known, acted under extreme provocation, and the wound which he inflicted with a small knife upon the mill superintendent was a mere scratch. Sheriff Haskins, moreover, had long boasted that he would "get Phelps' right yet," and the wounding of the mill man afforded the opportunity. The traditional tin badge of the village constable is popularly supposed to exist only in fiction, but it was conspicuously in evidence in the posse which Sheriff Haskins gathered to accompany him to Monroe to "get Phelps."

The posse of twenty men drove twelve miles over the mountain to Phelps' home, arriving at dawn on a Sunday. They pounded on the door and Mrs. Phelps answered. She warned the posse that her husband would defend his home with his life.

The law says that except in case of a felony a sheriff or other officer has no right to enter a house for the purpose of making an arrest without a warrant. Phelps had committed no felony and Sheriff Haskins had no warrant. Nevertheless Haskins pushed back the door and made for Phelps. And Phelps shot him dead.

Phelps then called to the posse, "I give the rest of you just three minutes to leave the house!" They left in a rush.

Phelps took to the woods, cutting telephone wires so as to insure a good start on any pursuers. The state militia was called out. Phelps lived for four days without food, and then, exhausted, he surrendered. For once the wheels of the Massachusetts judiciary ran smoothly and swiftly. Phelps was promptly convicted and sentenced to death and in all likelihood he will go to the chair.

Daily missives, as a rule, are received by Phelps from his wife. Occasionally the letter fails to appear, in which case the next day's mail invariably brings tidings of the illness of one of his three children, the care of whom occupied time which Mrs. Phelps ordinarily spent in writing to her husband. He must die without an opportunity to bid goodbye to his wife and children. He is penniless, and his wife is unable to pay the car fare of herself and children to Boston. And no one has thought of contributing the less than $10 necessary.

While there is little doubt that Phelps will pay the death penalty, uncertainty surrounds the cases of Spencer and Richeson. Spencer, who wantonly shot and killed in Springfield Miss Martha B. Blackstone, a Smith college graduate, after having committed fourteen burglaries without detection and been the principal in a series of attacks upon women, is in no immediate danger of being put to death. Months must elapse before the supreme court acts on his case. If he is denied a new trial there is still the last resort of an appeal for executive clemency.

In Richeson's case also executive clemency will be asked, and, if denied, a writ of error will be asked for on the ground that his mental condition at the time he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death was such that he was unable to comprehend fully the significance of his plea.

People are predicting that the governor's council, which saw no merit in the petition for clemency for Phelps, joined in by Gen. Pierce, who led the militia in Phelps' pursuit, will discover extenuating circumstances or evidence of insanity in the cases of Spencer and Richeson.

If the capital punishment law were impartially administered the recent recommendation of Gov. Foss that it be repealed would be opposed by many who are now disposed to favor it.

And the woman who makes a special trip to the store tomorrow for the purpose of finding a bargain, will not be disappointed in her expectations.

THERE ARE 150 BEAUTIFUL WAISTS IN THE LOT IN VARIOUS STYLES AND ASSORTED COLORS

The materials are crepe meteor, messaline silk and stunning chiffon models in veiled effect, made over all-over lace, fillet net and silk, either in contrasting colors or shades to match. While all of the waists are most beautifully trimmed, yet the chiffon models are truly artistic with the many beautiful embroidered effects, carried out in gold, self color or in contrasting colors.

Almost every color and shade is represented, so you will be able to match or get a shade that will correctly harmonize with other garments.

For this evening and tomorrow, the display will be in our large Berry St. window, and they will be on sale with the opening of the store in the morning.

And the Other Item is Furs

THE LOW PRICES AT WHICH WE HAVE BEEN OFFERING OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

J. V. HUNTER TO LEAVE THE CITY

Accepts Good Position With Avery Company at Peoria.

PENNSYLVANIA FREIGHT IN WRECK

Sixteen Cars Loaded With Cattle Go Through the Kankakee Bridge.

J. Vincent Hunter, engineer of material and assistant to Factory Superintendent E. A. Barnes, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, has tendered his resignation, effective the first of February. On that date Mr. Hunter will assume the duties of efficiency engineer and supervisor of the old shop and foundry at Peoria, Ill., of the Avery company, largest independent manufacturer of harvesting machinery in the United States and Canada. Mr. Hunter has been with the Fort Wayne Electric works four and a half years, coming directly here from the Lewis Institute, in Chicago, from which he graduated in mechanical engineering in June, 1907. He is an expert in his line of work and will be missed by the management of the Electric works. Shortly after Mr. Hunter came here, he was elected secretary of the Fort Wayne section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and has filled that office since. At the meeting last night, he submitted his resignation, because of his intention to leave the city, and Archibald B. Morrison, a mechanical engineer at the works, was appointed secretary, the appointment becoming effective at once.

KANKAKEE BRIDGE GOES DOWN.

Sixteen Cars Loaded With Cattle Thrown Off the Rails.

The most costly freight wreck of recent years on the Western division of the Pennsylvania occurred last night at the Kankakee bridge, about fifty miles east of Chicago. As an eastbound stock train of twenty-four cars was crossing the bridge, one of the cars became derailed and bumped along on the ties until it broke down a section of the bridge, and allowing the engine tender and sixteen of the cars to be derailed and piled up below. Some of the cars went into the water and it is understood that one of them was completely submerged and the stock drowned. All of the derailed cars were loaded with cattle, many of which were either killed or crippled so badly that it was necessary to kill them. The accident happened at 9:30 and a half hour later the Fort Wayne wreck crew, with many extra men, was en route to the scene. The road is completely blocked, the last train passing over the bridge being eastbound limited, No. 2. All the other trains were detained, via Hamlet and Hobart, over the Nickel Plate, or sent east over another route. The eastbound Manhattan Limited, No. 22, and the eastbound Pennsylvania Special, No. 25, made the trip from Chicago to Pittsburgh over the Panhandle and did not come through Fort Wayne. No. 16, due here at 11:55, came in over the Fort Wayne route, though it was delayed in making the detour. No. 8 will also come this way and it is believed the bridge will be repaired and all trains running over it as usual tonight. Supt. W. M. Wardrop and the majority of his staff officers went to the scene of the wreck last night and remained there until this morning. Early this morning a number of laborers were sent to the scene, a good many going from this city and others being picked up at other stations along the line.

IDEAS ARE COMMODITIES.

Pennsylvania Pays Its Employees for Good Ones.

Much interest was excited in railroad circles a short time ago when the Pennsylvania announced that it would pay its men for valuable ideas. The first results of the experiment have just been made public.

"Ideas are worth money. Send in good suggestions and we will pay you for them." This was the substance of general order No. 12, which went out to Pennsylvania railroad employees on the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division.

The response was immediate. As was expected, the men in charge of minute details saw ways of increasing efficiency of the work. Suggestions came in from all quarters. Many of them proved to be of real value and their authors were rewarded in cash.

A clerk in one of the round houses won a premium by submitting a plan for increasing economy by the further use of carbon sheets which remain in repair car books, after the cards have been filled in and removed. He devised a way of using this carbon paper, in connection with one of the company's forms for ordering material from the store houses.

Another of the schemes considered worthy of remuneration came from a tinsmith in one of the shops. He discovered an improved method for fastening in engine cabs the boxes which contain flags, torpedoes and medical case.

By standardizing the heights of coal gates on locomotive tenders, a fireman saw a way to minimize the loss of coal through vibration. He was paid for the idea.

At one of the terminals, an appliance for cleaning and sterilizing drinking cups used in coaches was perfected by a car inspector whose duties are in connection with the care and equipment of passenger cars. It was an undoubted improvement over the old method and its originator received payment for it.

Although a great many worthless suggestions come in, officials say that the saving effected by those which are adopted makes it very much worth while to investigate them all. Aside from these direct benefits, there is much indirect gain in the added interest employees take in their work, and in the watchfulness and originality which is developed.

NEW METHOD OBJECTIONABLE.

Old Engineers Like the One Engine Rule Best.

The practice of assigning engineers to certain runs and insisting on them taking them out with possibly a different engine each trip, which is general nowadays, was not brought about without a strenuous "kick" from the old-timers. Engineers became attached to the engine they handle regularly, regarding it with something of the affection bestowed upon a dog by its owner and they claim to understand it and can get better work out of it than out of an engine that they have not had opportunity to get acquainted with.

An old engineer is thus quoted by the Pittsburgh Post: "I was running an engine back in 1896 when the first schedule requiring engineers assigned to regular runs to stay on them, regardless of engines furnished was issued. The order occasioned a sensation amounting almost to a panic. I was running a freight engine that I thought as much of as I did my holiday vacation and the very thought of having it taken away from me to fill some passenger run was disheartening. And the same was true of the men who were running regular passenger engines and they began to evince a disposition to neglect them for they realized that when their own engines reached a condition where they could not be taken out, freight engines would be given them. And while the same feeling obtains yet among the older engineers who have known what it is to run one engine and learn to know and love it, the tendency of railroad managers to separate us from our engines has grown and I, for one, regard it as a defect in judgment, for a locomotive cannot be kept in nearly such good condition by employees who have no personal interest in it as by the man who has come to regard it as his own and has a pride in keeping it fit in every particular.

VOTE ON EXCURSION POINT.

Pennsylvania Employees to Decide Matter Next Monday.

At the call of President J. H. Hobrock the executive committee for the annual excursion of the Pennsylvania employees, which includes the heads of the several departments in the shops, held a meeting back of the planning mills, yesterday afternoon to discuss matters connected with the 1912 annual excursion. One of the most important matters up for discussion was the place of holding the annual picnic. Only two places were considered—Maxinkuckee and Rome City—and after discussing this feature awhile and failing to settle it definitely, the committee concluded to leave it to the employees themselves. They will take a vote on it next Monday and as each place has its advocates, the result cannot be forecasted with accuracy. After the employees make known their preference, President Hobrock will call another meeting of the executive committee, at which the date of the coming excursion will also be settled if possible.

WORKING 55 HOURS A WEEK.

The employees at the Pennsylvania shops are working fifty-five hours per week, ten hours each work day but Saturday and five hours the latter day. The prospects for a little overtime next week are said to be good as there are eighteen engines marked up for repairs. The Wabash shops are also working full time and with the largest force ever employed in the shop.

TWO PAY DAYS IN ONE.

Paymaster G. E. Francisco, of the Wabash, on his monthly visit here today issued to each employee two instead of one pay check. One covered the service rendered prior to December 24, the date on which the receivers took over the property, and the other check representing the earnings during the time the road was in the hands of the receiver in December.

TWO BIG EVENTS.

There are two social events of importance to railway and shop men and members of their families this evening. One is the first annual dance of Nickel Plate division No. 513, G. I. A., to the B. L. E., at Minnet-hall, and the other event is the annual skating party at the Princess rink given by the Electro-Technical club. Each will have a big attendance.

BRAKEMAN-MARKEY HURT.

Brakeman C. J. Markey, of the Pennsylvania, jumped from the engine of a freight train at Buynus, Ohio, yesterday when he thought the train was going off at a derail. In the fall he sustained a painful sprain of the hand and wrist and numerous bruises of the body. The train was not derailed however and had the brakeman remained on the engine he would not have been injured.

OLD RAILWAY SURGEON RESIGNS.

Dr. H. M. Evans, well known in railway and professional circles in northern Indiana, has accepted the office of secretary of the chamber of commerce at Chattanooga. Dr. Evans has resided in Valparaiso a number of years and has been the chief surgeon of the western division of the Grand Trunk road for nine years. He was here a short time ago on business with the Commercial club.

HAD HIS HEAD CUT.

Fireman A. E. Bollinger, for some time employed in the G. R. & I. yards at Kalamazoo, sustained injuries to his head when he was struck by some article. The injury, it is understood, is not serious, but the fireman had to be relieved and the company sent an extra man up to Kalamazoo this morning.

WILL REPORT MONDAY.

Earle Watterman and George Blakesley will resume their duties in the incandescent testing room at the Fort Wayne Electric works Monday. Mr. Watterman has been sick for three weeks and Mr. Blakesley was sick a week and later painfully burned by a short circuit.

GRAY AND BUNNELL PROMOTED.

W. S. Bunnell, for some time superintendent of the factory for Hanna-Brackendridge & company, has been transferred to the sales and purchasing department and has been succeeded as superintendent by Cecil Gray. Each man has been in the employ of the company a number of years and the change is a promotion for him.

WRECK DELAYS TRAIN.

Westbound Nickel Plate passenger train No. 1 was four or five hours late yesterday afternoon when it pulled into Fort Wayne. The delay was due to a freight wreck on a road which crosses the Nickel Plate on the Eastern division. Several cars were piled on the Nickel Plate tracks.

WILL NOT MOVE TILL SUMMER.

H. G. Pinniger, claims agent for the Ohio lines of the New York Central system, with headquarters at Toledo, will not move his family to Toledo nor give up his residence here till next summer. Mr. Pinniger will be here tomorrow night to remain over Sunday with his folks.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Fireman Charles E. Ant, of the Pennsylvania, is sick and off duty. Trainmaster C. E. Wells, of the Wabash, was in the city yesterday on business for the company. J. O. Langston, I. Sorg, C. E. Ryan and H. F. Rieter, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty. Machinist H. J. Wright, of the Pennsylvania, will shoot rabbits tomorrow in the country around and about Bourbon.

POOL ROOM MAN DRAWS BIG FINE

Also Told If He Allows Minors to Play He Will Go to Jail.

A PLEA OF GUILTY

Sekula Zuzeff, Syrian proprietor of a cut-rate pool room on the third floor of the building at Calhoun and Berry streets, paid $80 in the city court today for allowing minors to play pool in his establishment and was told by Judge Munger and Chief of Police Abbott that a surveillance will be maintained on his place and if he is caught again for the same kind of an offense he will go to jail.

He has been permitting students at a local business college to congregate in his place, has permitted gambling and has violated the law so openly that it was determined to make an example of him. The place will be watched and it is stated if the gambling does not cease the owners of the building will be looked after next. The fine was $50 and it, with $10 of costs, was paid.

Burns Was Held Under $300.

John Burns, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, was held until Jan. 22 under a bond of $300. He stabbed Harry Hamilton in Tom Kelly's saloon, 1315 South Calhoun street, last night, inflicting a wound in the shoulder from which the injured man will recover. The fight was the outcome of a drunken quarrel and witnesses say that Hamilton had been looking for trouble.

He is 24 years old and lives with his wife at 303 East Berry street, and is a waiter, having been employed for some time at the Transfer restaurant. Detective Sergeant Immel picked Burns up and Capt. Russell secured a confession that he had used a knife. He threw it away and it has not been recovered. Burns lives at 245 Masterson avenue.

Trio Went to Jail.

James Blackburn got $10 and costs and ninety days in jail; James Dillon $10 and costs and eighty days, and Henry Middleton $10 and costs and sixty days for an assault upon Manager Sprague Green, of the Lyric theater.

They were drunk and using "bad language" in the theater during a show and when they were ordered out they put up a fight. Dillon was knocked down by Green, who wielded a chair, and Middleton tried to use a razor in the course of the difficulty. All are strangers in Fort Wayne and the fight in the lobby of the theater caused a lot of excitement.

The Other Cases.

George Overholzer was fined $5 and costs for an assault on Henry Friday in a Fairfield avenue saloon a day or two ago. He is accused of having kicked his man several times after he had knocked him down, but both of them were drunk. Friday got $1 and costs and his brother, Louis, was allowed to go, although it was shown he was under the influence of liquor.

Worth Shroyer, William Bingham, William Hogan and William McLaughlin were each fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Trade early in the day tomorrow. We expect the busiest day of the month and we want to give you the best service possible.

He stabbed Harry Hamilton in Tom Kelly's saloon, 1315 South Calhoun street, last night, inflicting a wound in the shoulder from which the injured man will recover. The fight was the outcome of a drunken quarrel and witnesses say that Hamilton had been looking for trouble.

He is 24 years old and lives with his wife at 303 East Berry street, and is a waiter, having been employed for some time at the Transfer restaurant. Detective Sergeant Immel picked Burns up and Capt. Russell secured a confession that he had used a knife. He threw it away and it has not been recovered. Burns lives at 245 Masterson avenue.

Trio Went to Jail.

James Blackburn got $10 and costs and ninety days in jail; James Dillon $10 and costs and eighty days, and Henry Middleton $10 and costs and sixty days for an assault upon Manager Sprague Green, of the Lyric theater.

They were drunk and using "bad language" in the theater during a show and when they were ordered out they put up a fight. Dillon was knocked down by Green, who wielded a chair, and Middleton tried to use a razor in the course of the difficulty. All are strangers in Fort Wayne and the fight in the lobby of the theater caused a lot of excitement.

The Other Cases.

George Overholzer was fined $5 and costs for an assault on Henry Friday in a Fairfield avenue saloon a day or two ago. He is accused of having kicked his man several times after he had knocked him down, but both of them were drunk. Friday got $1 and costs and his brother, Louis, was allowed to go, although it was shown he was under the influence of liquor.

Worth Shroyer, William Bingham, William Hogan and William McLaughlin were each fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

CITY SHOULD BUY ALL RIVER FRONTAGE

property values, better public health and a loftier standard of citizenship. A letter from the Woman's league had been sent to Mr. Bookwalter, requesting that he give an expression of opinion regarding the city's duty in the proposed gift of the Hamilton home- stead, now being sought under condem- nation proceedings for an extension of the high school building. Mr. Book- walter explained that he was not suffi- ciently familiar with the situation to venture an opinion in the matter, but he took occasion to commend Fort Wayne highly for the work it is do- ing in manual training in the schools.

Splendid Interest Shown.
The meeting had been called by the Commercial club to discuss the proposed bond issue of $200,000 for the purchase of river frontage. The attendance was very large, including representatives of all the civic improvement associations in the city, and a splendid interest was manifested throughout.

Charles H. Worden presided as chair- man of the evening, speaking briefly. At the outset of the program Harry M. Williams, representing the committee sent by the Civic Improvement associa- tion to attend the convention of the American Civic association at Washing- ton, read the committee's report of its investigations. The report set forth in some detail the work of civic im- provement which is going forward in the live cities of America, indicating that advance along this line is not lo- cal, but general; that the cities one most frequently hears about are the ones who are doing most in the way of beautification, sanitation and municipal progress. Considerable attention was paid to Harrisburg, Pa., a city almost identical in size with Fort Wayne, and where in the past ten years a tre- mendous work in civic improvement, and especially river beautification, has been wrought. It has made Harrisburg well high the model American city in this particular and the improvement, opposed at first by a portion of the population, is now universally commended.

Col. D. N. Foster was the closing speaker, arguing forcefully for the bond issue and predicting that whether the bonds are issued or not, Fort Wayne is certain to acquire and improve its river banks.

Work Is Fundamental.

Dr. Henry Jameson, chairman of the Indianapolis park board, and the man who has been in the forefront of the wonderful civic improvement work car- ried on in that city during the past eight or ten years, declared that the question of improving the rivers is as fundamental to Fort Wayne's growth and advancement as is the sewerage problem. He declared a philosophy which contemplated comfort and beauty as two of the principal requisites of this life and that people were entitled to a right to live under the best possible conditions. He asserted that Fort Wayne not only owed it to its own citizenship to carry forward this work but that it must advance along these lines if it is to keep pace with its competitors among American cities.

Urging the bond issue, Dr. Jameson declared that one look at the completed work of river beautification would be worth infinitely more than the work would ever cost any one taxpayer. "Most men and every city in Indiana," he said, "has that fear of getting into debt. Are you aware that there is not a successful business man in the country who does not use borrowed money? The man who buys on his own money cannot compete with the progressive business man who buys with money he borrows from the banks."

"You need have no fear. The trouble is that under the present law regarding the limitations of bond issues, not enough can be secured and that limita- tion in a measure is a curse as greater credit should be extended. Many things should be done but without all the cost falling upon the people of the present generation. Your children and their children will expect you to do this thing and it is right that they should help pay for the improvements which make their future home an ideal place in which to live.

"You are on the right track and while there is some conservatism about the question, you should educate the con- servative into the righteousness of this course. I have found that when a con- servative speaks of the proposed issue of $200,000 he applies that amount solely to himself. If they will pause to figure just how much interest and principal they will be compelled to pay, they will be relieved of a wrong idea under which they have been laboring."

Work at Indianapolis.

At the outset of his address Hon. C. A. Bookwalter devoted some time to a re- cital of the experiences of Indianapolis in river improvement, which was begun and fostered during Mr. Bookwalter's administration as mayor. Again and again he emphasized the importance of acquiring all the river frontage that is likely to be needed immediately, before the work of improvement is begun, and that the beautification be then carried on step by step as the city may be able to do it. Continuing, Mr. Bookwalter said in part:

"Fort Wayne has, I am informed, a greater borrowing capacity today than did Indianapolis when our scheme of im- provement was started. We were able to borrow less than $200,000 and keep within the 2 per cent limit while Fort Wayne can today borrow in the neigh- borhood of $300,000. We were forced to begin work under the special assessment plan and right here I want to say that I am not particularly partial to this plan of securing general public improvements."

"But we started in this fashion and began work upon a small section of land. Almost immediately, the ground ad- jacent to this work advanced in value to a remarkable degree and the next year, when we were ready to proceed farther with the work, we found that we were obliged to pay a profit upon the work we had already done and we have been confronted with this condition ever since."

Bridge Is Expensive.

"When we had our park law up for consideration, a number of citizens thought they saw in it a chance for an unlimited expenditure of public funds and immediately there was a great outcry and a demand that the board be bridled somewhat in its powers. The public had its way and the amount the board could expend in any one year was limited—the park board was effectively bridled. Since then we have found that this visit of citizens, acting doubtless from purest motives, to the municipal harness shop, will cost Indianapolis $1,000,000 before the present plans have been completed."

"Is it not right that you should take advantage of your ability to issue bonds to purchase the property you need for future park work? Let any man figure out what it will cost him in taxes to maintain the sinking fund levy and the fund to pay interest upon the bonds is- sued, taking into account the increased value of real estate arising because of the construction of parks, and he will find that ten to fifteen dollars will pay his bill for the rest of his natural life. If he owns a single square foot of real estate and ever decides to place it upon the market he will find that he has been amply repaid. By issuing bonds you will be able to thwart the land specu- lators who will be only too quick to get hold of the property along the river banks if they find that the city is in- tending in the future to purchase it for park purposes."

"Let me tell you of an experience in Indianapolis during my term as mayor. We improved one side of the river, elim- inating the ragged collection of hoop skirts, ash piles, tin cans and dead cats and made of the river bank a spot of picturesque beauty. Immediately a well known citizen purchased a piece of prop- erty just across the river and built him- self a home at a cost of $25,000. I per- sonally urged him not to buy the land, pointing out that the city would, in the near future, desire it for park purposes, and this was my answer. The citizen told me plainly that the city would not reach that point in its work for five or six years. He intended to build his home, enjoy living in it until such time as the city was ready to condemn the ground for a park or boulevard and in- formed me that he was perfectly well satisfied that when the time came, he would be able to demand a very satis- factory profit for his investment. To- day we are confronted with the problem of buying this bit of land and paying the selfish citizen a handsome profit."

Competition Among Cities.

"You must remember that in this day there is as great competition among cities as there is among individuals. Cities able to offer the best inducement to home builders, get them. Money ex- pended in beautifying the disagreeable spots is money well expended. Kansas City is a splendid example of this truth."

"In this movement I can see the be- ginning of a splendid future for Fort Wayne. Let me give you this bit of ad- vice: Buy all the land you need now, while it can be purchased at a reason- able figure and your children and chil- dren's children will remember you with favor."

"Each year you delay beginnin g this work you will find that the first cost of the land has increased, through the natural increase in land values and im- provements that will be made by in- dividuals. Future generations should not expect of you to purchase the ground and turn over to them a park system fully equipped. Each generation should bear its proportionate share in the great work."

"The construction of beautiful parks and drives throughout all portions of a city gives the man of humble means opportunity to secure a site for his home amid surroundings as advantage- ous as those about the home of the mil- lionaire. This is as it should be and as it will be if Fort Wayne continues."

One Local Illustration.

Mr. Bookwalter's repeated reference to his early days in Fort Wayne and of his kindly feeling for the old home town were applauded again and again. When he had concluded S. M. Foster proposed a vote of thanks on behalf of the meeting to Mr. Bookwalter and to Dr. Jameson for their addresses. It was carried enthusiastically and unani- mously by a rising vote.

Referring to Mr. Bookwalter's account of rising values of property in the im- mediate vicinity of improvement work of this character, Mr. Worden cited a local instance. After Mr. Kessler had designed for T. F. Thieme the start of river improvement work which the latter inaugurated at the Main street bridge, Mr. Thieme noticed a triangular lot in the vicinity which he believed the city would soon need in its improvement plans. He determined to secure it, for the city, approached the owner and was offered the property for $1,500. Mr. Thieme, who was about to start for Europe, told the owner he would take the property at that figure, and would close up the deal as soon as he returned from his trip. Arriving from Europe Mr. Thieme attempted to complete the purchase, and was met by an advance in price to $2,500 by reason of the im- provement he had himself provided and paid for.

AGED WOMAN IN DEATH MYSTERY

Storm of Searching Investigation Centers About Mrs. Godau.

ASSUMES ALL BLAME

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Mary T. Godau, shriveled with age, her features sharp, her hands bony, her limbs twisted, held in jail here for the killing of her son-in-law, Frederick Wasserleben, is the center of an investigation by the state in connection with violent deaths in her family. Her son and daughter are held as accessories in the death of her son-in-law. The old woman declares she shot Wasserleben in defense of her honor.

Frail and weak, she clings to the story that she rolled the body into a piece of sailcloth and dumped it into a stagnant pool about half a mile from the house of the tragedy, although her victim weighed at least 200 pounds.

The killing of Frederick Wasserleben was similar in circumstances to that of Joseph Godau, husband of Wasserleben's sister, in 1902. Following the discovery of Wasserleben's body in the pond by a newsboy, officers found red stains on the side of the Wasserleben house. Under the house was found stained, clothing wrapped in a blanket.

Mrs. Godau, her daughter, Mrs. Virginia Wasserleben, wife of the dead man, and Henry Green, son of Mrs. Godau by a former husband, were arrested. Mrs. Wasserleben and Green protested their innocence. Later, upon the suggestion that her story might clear her son and daughter, Mrs. Godau said that she killed her son-in-law because he had insulted her. Her first statement was:

"I killed my son-in-law, Fred Wasserleben, because he insulted me. I went to his room and told him supper was ready. He did not answer. I came on the second time, but he was drunk. I went to the side of the bed and shook him, and he grabbed me and insulted me."

"I ran down to the lower hall, where I saw his pistol on the hatrack. I jerked it out of its scabbard and ran back upstairs with it. I told him I was going to kill him and he said, 'Go ahead.' I raised the pistol and, looking him straight in the face, shot him in the forehead. He fell to the floor and I pulled the trigger again and shot him in the cheek."

That the revolver was held within twelve inches of the head is declared evident from the fact that the entire side of the face is pitted with powder.

Mrs. Godau, says Sheriff Palmer, could not have disposed of the body without assistance.

Mrs. Godau continues in her confession:

"It was dark and rainy. There was only a dim oil lamp in the room, and I felt creepy."

Left Body on Porch. "I found a stout piece of rope, tied it around his neck, and dragged the body down the stairs, slid it out of the door and left it on the front porch. I left there until my son and daughter had come home and gone to bed. Then I stole from my bed to the back yard, hitched up the horse and wagon, drove it around to the front porch and pulled Fred's body into it."

"I started down the road about 12 o'clock in the driving rain. I backed the wagon into the pond and shoved him into the water. I drove back home, put the horse in the barn and buried the stained clothing."

Mrs. Godau later said she was assisted in handling the body by a negro boy, whom she gave a dollar.

At the coroner's inquest, when a verdict was found charging Mrs. Godau with the murder, both Mrs. Wasserleben and Green denied knowledge of the crime.

On December 18 the wife went to the police station and paid Wasserleben's dues in the Police Relief association, requesting, at the time, that the fact that she had paid the dues be kept from her husband. About four or five days before the tragedy Mrs. Wasserleben called at the station for the receipt.

About three months ago Wasserleben took out $3,000 additional insurance in a fraternal organization, making his total insurance $7,000. A mortgage on the property, owned by Mrs. Green, was about due.

On a rainy night in the fall of 1902 Joseph Godau was shot to death within 200 yards of his home at Cottage Hill, Mobile county. He had considerable insurance on his life. The grand jury investigated the case, but no evidence was found to show that Mrs. Godau had knowledge of the identity of the slayer.

Previous to marrying Godau, she was the wife of Charles Stein, a sea captain, and father of Mrs. Wasserleben. It is said that he went into his home one evening about sundown and was never seen again.

Wasserleben, who had been a resident of this city for thirteen years, had borne a reputation for being rough and quarrelsome. For a time he operated a beer saloon for sailors in which numerous fights and cutting affairs occurred. He came from Philadelphia as the organizer of the Seamen's and Firemen's union. Owing to his physical prowess, he was a favorite along the water front.

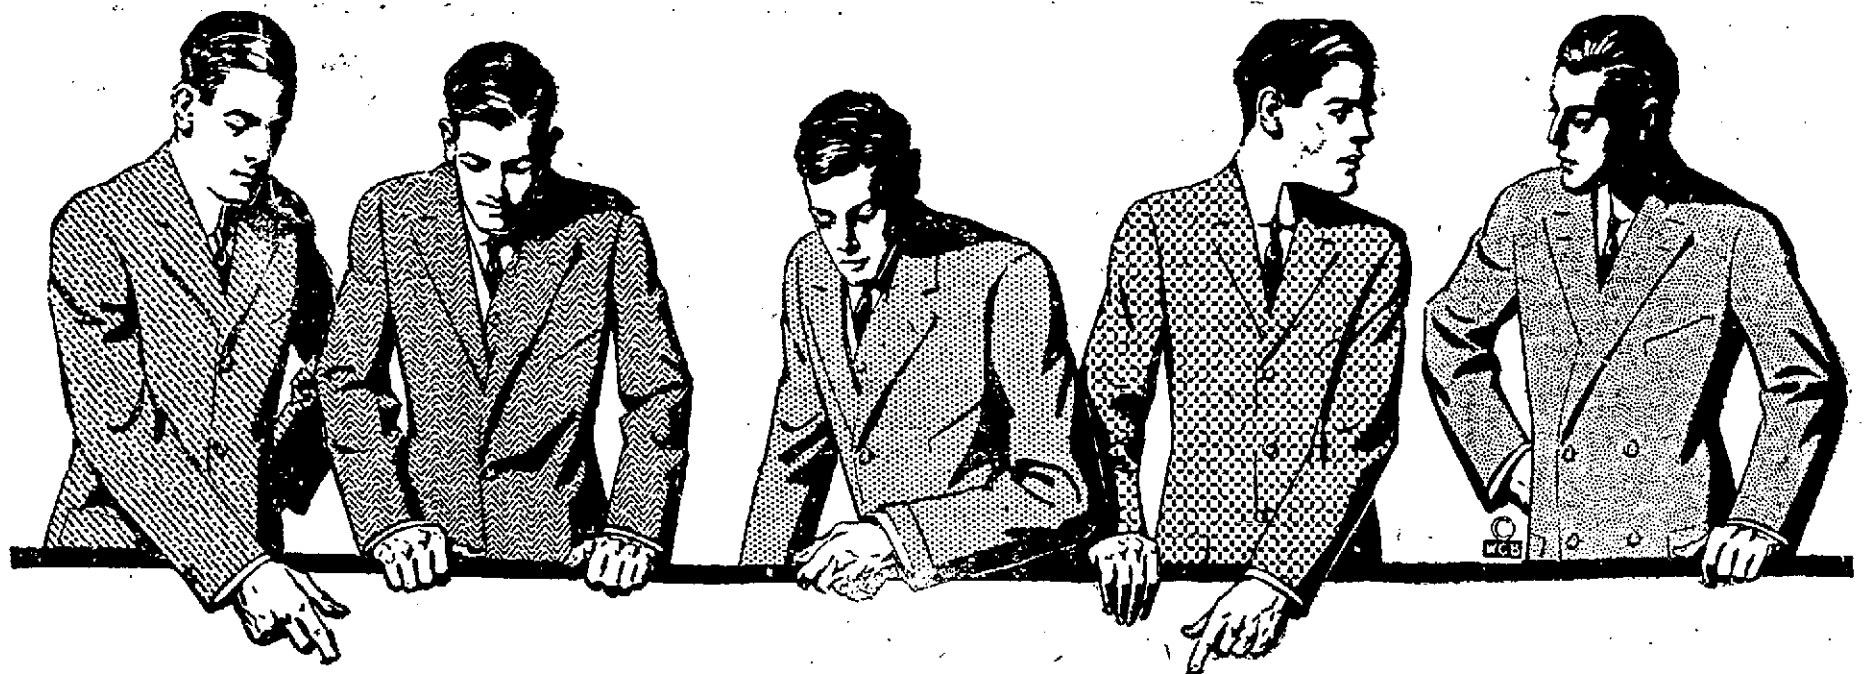

Wasserleben was married once before, his wife securing a divorce. She is now the wife of Louis Thomas, a bridge-keeper on the Louisville and Nashville railroad at Hurricane, Ala.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

Mrs. Coffey.

This is what Mrs. GENETT E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135."

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good."

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

FINDS PROMISE IN THE CACTUS

Burbank Says Discovery
Will Revolutionize the Paint Industry.

AND WHITEWASH, TOO

Santa Rosa, Jan. 19.—"Wizard" Luther Burbank again has startled the world by a wonderful discovery in the further use of his famous spineless cactus. This time he bids fair to revolutionize the whitewash, paint and automobile tire industries. Burbank made his startling discovery known at the convention of the California Fruit Growers' association, in session here.

Much was expected of "Wizard" Burbank by his fellow fruit growers, but his paper proved the greatest of sensations and took the large number in the convention hall by storm. Absolute silence reigned while he was talking, and during the general discussion that followed his was the voice that won the closest attention.

Fruit Nutritious.
Burbank began with a brief history of the ordinary cactus. He pictured the plant, described the absolute uselessness credited to it at first and he told of his experiments in attempting to grow a spineless cactus with the intention of testing its usefulness as a food for the poorer breed of cattle and hogs. All this was not entirely unknown to his audience, but he astounded those present a moment later when he said that he had learned by experiments that the leaves of the plant made the most excellent whitewash and paint, and that the fruit itself was a nutritious food.

Burbank then entered into a description of the fruit's food value. He said that renowned European scientists had admitted that there was more nutrition and general food value in one leaf of the cactus than there was in a good sized beefsteak.

The fruit of the cactus plant, Burbank explained, was eaten as a breakfast dish or as a dessert, being both tasteful and delicious. Burbank called on George C. Roeding, a widely known nurseryman of Fresno, to substantiate his statement in regard to the excellence of it as a food, and Roeding added that he had eaten the fruit for breakfast that morning with sugar and cream and found it the most pleasing breakfast dish he had ever eaten.

Strawberry Substitute.

"I never want to eat strawberries and cream again, provided I can get the fruit of a cactus," he said.

When Burbank launched forth into his description of the use of the leaves of the cactus plant for whitewash and paint the delegates at the convention were tense in their interest. Burbank said that he is negotiating with one of the largest paint houses in the world to supply it with cactus leaves for paint purposes.

"One leaf," Burbank said, "will make ten gallons of paint. The mucilage of the cactus leaf will not dissolve in water, but it will dissolve in alcohol. This mucilage will readily take oil colors and is easily handled."

"I am not as far advanced in my experiments with the cactus leaf as a paint product as I am with its possible use as whitewash, but, nevertheless, I am sure of its practical value for paint, and I am confident that the future common paint supply of the world will be furnished by the juice of this spineless cactus leaf. When you consider that the mucilage from one leaf will make ten gallons of paint, you can readily see what the possibilities of an acre planted to cactus plants are."

Whitewash Waterproof.
"I have found that the whitewash made from the cactus leaves is absolutely waterproof. This in itself is worthy of great consideration. I now am negotiating with an eastern concern to use this cactus leaf whitewash."

Still further surprise was in store for the convention. Burbank said he had discovered that the fiber of the plant, or the bone, as it is more commonly called, was an excellent substitute for rubber in the manufacture of automobile tires. He added that this same fiber would also be an excellent substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper.

Following the reading of his paper Burbank explained many details of his experiments in answer to the scores of questions hurled at him from all sides.

Profit in Seaweed.

The same species of seaweed used in Japan for the manufacture of kanten exists in inexhaustible abundance on our Pacific coast and at numerous places along the Atlantic coast, while related species, of equal value, are abundant almost everywhere in temperate waters. In this country the product commands high prices, so that the manufacture of seaweed insulating glass ought to prove a highly remunerative industry.

Story of Chicago Physician.

A prominent physician tells this story: A poor woman went to a nearby dispensary to ask aid for her little son who had one of his fingers smashed with a baseball bat. At the first room where she applied a curt attendant told her that the boy could not be treated there. "Wrong place," he explained, "this is the eye and the ear department." "Vere is der thumb and finger department?" inquired the woman, simply.

Importance of Being Correct.

The Sunday school teacher was telling her class about the wicked children mocking the good prophet, and how two she bears came out of the mountains and "ate up" over forty of the wicked children. "Now, boys," she concluded, "what lesson does this teach us?" "I know," said one youngster; "it teaches us how many children a she bear can hold."

MAKE A BIG SUPPLY

SUFFICIENT TO LAST THROUGH-OUT THE WINTER.

Splendid Home-Made Cold and Cough Medicine Made From Pure Essence Mentho-Laxene; Cheap and Effective, Too.

Usually a family spends two to five dollars every winter for cough, cold and catarrh remedies, buying 25c worth at a time.

For instance, a two-ounce bottle at 25c will contain about four-fifths "syrup" and one-fifth "medicine." That's paying too much for ordinary syrup; you can make a half gallon of syrup for 25c.

The syrup, extra bottles, labels, corks, cartoons, etc., make this method of buying very expensive by the end of the year.

A little thought and wisdom will save any family several dollars and give them purer and better medicine, too.

Make a simple syrup with a pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water; then buy the pure concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene at your drug store (2 1/2 oz. bottle) and empty it into a pint bottle or jar and then fill it up with the syrup.

Now you have a season's supply of the purest, best and most promptly effective cold and catarrh cure and cough medicine that it is possible to obtain.
It keeps indefinitely, and cures young and old of colds, catarrh coughs, bronchitis, hoarseness, shortness of breath and all lung and bronchial trouble. It is the only remedy that cures coughs and drives catarrhal matter out of the system, by its tonic-laxative action. It improves the appetite, reduces fever and strengthens the system, thus avoiding chronic ailments and consumption.

Directions with each bottle of Essence Mentho-Laxene tell how to make and how to take. The manufacturers also guarantee to refund money to any one not pleased by its thorough effectiveness.

with the northwest wind driving snow in through broad cracks and having for company a small menagerie of rats, white mice, dogs and guinea pigs, is at work eighteen hours a day, seven days in the week, "in the interests of science."

The woman is Maude Slye, a former instructor in the medical department of the University of Chicago. The goal for which she is striving is a cure for cancer.

The experiments are being conducted under the direction of the Institute for Medical Research founded by the late Otto S. A. Sprague. Miss Slye has been engaged in her present line of experiments since early last spring. A maid, who is present at the laboratory during the day, is the scientist's only attendant.

The maid was acting under permanent instructions when she announced to a visitor that "Miss Slye's time is taken up entirely by her work. Her orders are that she will see no one."

Persistent requests that she express in persons her disinclination to see visitors were rewarded by admission to the house.

The lower floor of the building is arranged for the accommodation of the animals which serve as subjects for the experiments. Cages for rats and mice line the walls. In the center of the room a little arena is fenced off for the dogs.

Miss Slye was engaged in studying the contents of a test tube by the strong light of a calcium burner. A long line of test tubes, each numbered, was arranged in a rack. The numbers of these tubes ran up into the hundreds and are the results of previous experiments.

Miss Slye ignored the visitor until she had concluded the test, carefully numbered the tube and arranged it in the rack.

"The purpose of my securing this little building is to be away from the distractions of the university campus," Miss Slye said.

She admitted that the methods which she was using had never before been tried. She said they were partly original and partly a crystallization of the thought of the American medical profession on the question of a cure for cancer.

"We may have that knowledge which the world in general and the medical profession in particular is awaiting within a few months. However, nothing will be announced until we have found a certain cure," she said.

"The collection of animals which I keep here is for use in testing out the results of my experiments. It will not be necessary to try out the cure, when found, in a clinic. I can arrive at positive conclusions here by the use of the animals."

Representing Supt. J. N. Study, who is a member of the state board and Prof.
C. T. Lane, on Wednesday, made an official inspection of the Wabash high school.

S.S.S. RIDES THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Catarrh is a blood disease which causes a general inflammation of the inner linings or mucous membranes of the body. The diseasing of these delicate surfaces and tissues produces all the well known symptoms of the trouble, such as ringing noises in the head and ears, tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, pains above the eyes, irritation of the throat, sometimes slight fever, and a general feeling of weakness and ill health. Even the lungs become affected by the continual passage of impure blood through them, and there is danger of consumption if the disease is allowed to remain in the system. S. S. S. cures Catarrh because it purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes every particle of the catarrhal matter, making this vital fluid pure, rich and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, every symptom disappears, the constitution is built up and health restored. S. S. S. rides the system of catarrh by attacking the trouble at its head and entirely removing the cause from the blood, thus making a permanent and lasting cure. S. S. S. is made entirely from health-giving roots, herbs and barks, and for this reason is an especially safe and desirable medicine.

ISLAND CAPTIVES FOR THE WINTER

Fitzmoris and His Wife Lead Lonely Life in Lake Erie.

HE IS LIGHTKEEPER

Port Clinton, Ohio, Jan. 19.—After the closing of navigation Lightkeeper Chauncey Fitzmoris and wife, who are stationed on West Sister, the most isolated of all islands in the Lake Erie district, are cut off from the outside world as far as human interests are concerned. There are no telephones to the island, so there is no way to communicate with the mainland, the nearest shore being Locust point, nine miles distant. There will be no mail or papers for them until the spring season opens.

Fitzmoris made his last trip to this port for supplies a few days before Thanksgiving day. The weather became bad and he was obliged to spend his holiday here, while his wife at her Thanksgiving dinner alone on the island. Mrs. Fitzmoris acts as deputy during the absence of the lightkeeper, who leaves the island only on official business.

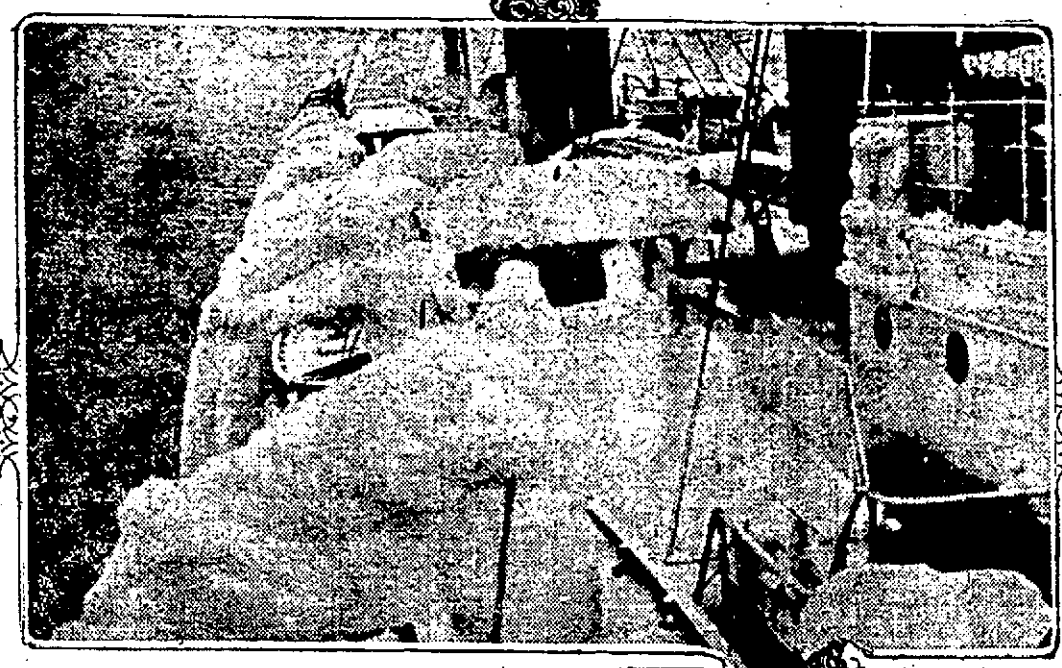

West Sister island is eighteen miles from Port Clinton and twenty-five miles from Toledo, the nearest ports where food supplies are to be had. The island is about half a mile wide and the same in length, containing about eighty-five acres, part of which is covered with forest. These oak and elm trees are being preserved by the government.

Until the last year or two much gardening was done on the island, but the rabbits now are so numerous they destroy growing vegetables. The rabbits, which are of the Belgian hare species, were imported a few years ago. There were but two pairs, and now there are over 200. Many are slaughtered annually by the hunters invited to the island by the keeper. Many quail and wild duck are also to be found in this vicinity. Many head of cattle are raised for market by the keeper, who also is a poultry raiser, having over 200 chickens besides many turkeys.

The island in summer is a favorite sport for a Sunday's outing, many boats from Toledo, Detroit and Cleveland bringing excursionists to the lightkeeper's abode. The government supply boats also make regular trips to the island. A short time ago a message telling of the death of the father of Fitzmoris came to this city. There was no way to deliver the message from here except by a special boat. It was necessary to make arrangements for the boat at Port Rowan, Canada, where the message was sent from. By the time arrangements for the boat could be made it was too late to get service for that day. Word then was sent to Oak Harbor by mail, and this was forwarded by rural service to Locust Point, where fishermen live who occasionally visit West Sister island during the fishing season. It was through this means that the death message finally was delivered.

The West Sister light was built in 1847 and rebuilt in 1868, and since has undergone some changes. It is a fixed white light which can be seen fifteen miles on a clear night, marking some of the most dangerous reefs in the lakes. Loaded boats generally take the north

TWO YEARS PAST CENTURY MARK

Busy Man of Affairs Extols
Virtue of Temperate

MR. LOMAX'S CAREER

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 19.—Joseph Lomax, first president of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railway company, and one time owner of the Kalamazoo Gazette, recently celebrated his one hundred and second birthday in this city, being the oldest living ex-editor, ex-railroad president and attorney in the country. Besides this he is the oldest living thirty-second degree Mason, being sublime prince of the royal secret in the order of Scottish Rite, and also the oldest living Knight Templar.

Mr. Lomax holds his Scottish Rite membership in Grand Rapids and his Knight Templar membership in the Kalamazoo lodge, although he is now a resident of Indianapolis.

His last birthday was spent quietly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Martha Martin, in Indianapolis. A few friends called to extend greeting and scores wrote letters congratulating him upon his good health at such an advanced age. All expressed a hope that he might live to enjoy several more birthdays.

Until advanced age forced him to retire from business Mr. Lomax was one of the busiest men in Michigan. He organized the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railway company and was its president from 1854 to 1866. At that time he was a resident of Laporte, Ind.

Born in 1808 in North Carolina, Mr. Lomax moved with his father to Wayne county, Indiana, in 1816, the year Indiana was admitted to statehood. He worked on his father's farm, until he was eighteen years of age, attending the district schools during the winters. While still a young man he learned the wheelwright trade, but gave this up and studied law. He was admitted to practice in Laporte county, Indiana, in 1830.

After being admitted to the bar he went to Marion, Ind., where he spent four years in the mercantile business. It was while a resident of Marion that he organized and was elected president of the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad. Soon after he moved to Sturgis, Mich.

He put $60,000 into the enterprise and lost every cent in the failure of the old company. After the failure the property was taken over by another corporation and Mr. Lomax drifted into the newspaper business, but without great financial success.

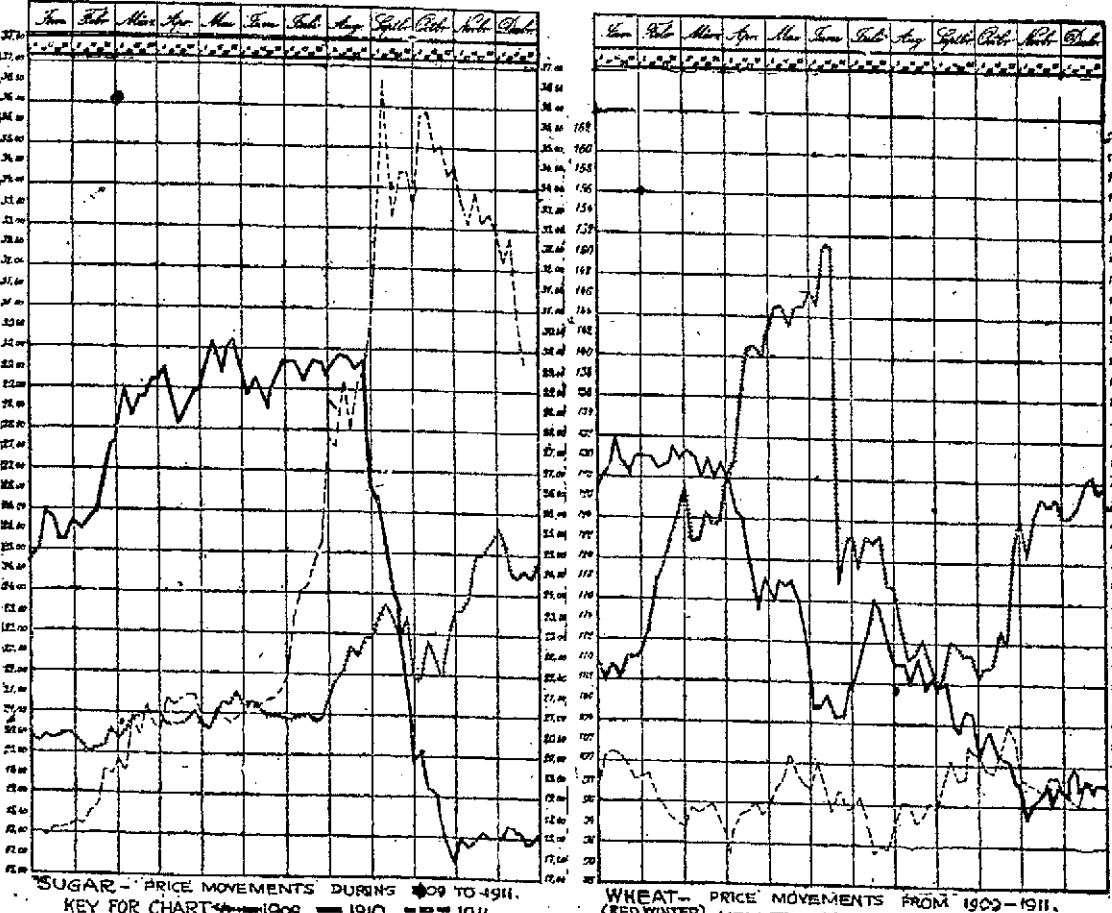

As a publisher Mr. Lomax once owned the Kalamazoo Gazette, and later became a partner of Wilbur F. Story in a newspaper venture in Richmond, Ind. Mr. Story later founded the Laporte Herald, and also the Chicago Times. It was after the Richmond venture that Mr. Lomax went to Grand Rapids, where he entered the treasury department of the Grand Rapids and Indiana. He was employed by the railroad until he was ninety-two years old, when he was forced to retire under the pension system. Although the company offered him a pension he refused to accept it, saying he would not accept money for services he had not rendered.

He ascribes his longevity to temperate habits.

Sewell W. Smith, of Skowhegan, has in his possession a square of glass that was hand-made that came from the first house ever built in Skowhegan. This house is now standing on the river road and was formerly the residence of Joseph Weston, one of the first settlers. It was built in 1788 and is now owned by Mrs. Ella S. Merrill. Mr. Smith helped repair the house forty-five years ago and saved the square of glass at that time. This pane is nearly a quarter of an inch thick in some parts and is very uneven.—Lewiston (Me.) HEADS INDIANA LUMBERMEN.

Van B. Perrine Elected President of State Association.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 19.—Van B. Perrine, of Fort Wayne, was elected president of the Indiana Hardwood Lumbermen's association at its convention here yesterday afternoon. He was a speaker at the banquet last evening, predicting that the association would prove a powerful factor during the coming year. C. W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, was another speaker. Other officers elected by the lumbermen were:

B. Young, Evansville, vice president.
C. H. Kramer, Richmond, secretary.
James Buckley, Brookville, treasurer.
E. E. Swain, of Shelbyville, was added to the board of directors.

Following their annual custom, Peter Moran & Co. on Wednesday afternoon gave the 125 little ones at St. Vincent's orphan asylum a bob-sled ride, followed by a candy treat that was immensely enjoyed by the children.

Mrs. O. N. Guldin Speaks Before Indiana Gas Convention.

Mrs. O. N. Guldin, of this city, delivered an address before the Indiana Gas association at Indianapolis yesterday, commending the gas men for their efforts to increase the efficiency and broaden the utility of gas. S. E. Mulholland, of Fort Wayne, retiring president, and O. C. Thwing, of Fort Wayne, were elected directors of the association. Howard L. Olds, of Indianapolis, is the new president.

Danderine

Grows hair and we can prove it

Hair Becomes Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Beautiful Immediately After a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair—No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Try as you will after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it, if you will just try a little Danderine. Real surprise awaits you.

Witness Tells How Packers Kept Market Sound in Boston.

THE PACKERS' TRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Direct testimony that the reports of the alleged packers' combine exchanged daily and weekly reports of shipments and margins together with the detailed operations of the business transacted by each branch house was given to the jury today in the trial of the ten Chicago packers charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law. Everett B. Dill, former manager for the National Packing company in Boston and assistant manager for the same company in New York, went on the stand and gave damaging testimony against the packers.

He declared that the managers for Armour, Swift, Morris and the National Packing company in Boston, who were in charge of the New England territory, met daily and were on terms of the closest business intimacy. He said they exchanged by telephone the daily shipment and margins of each company and that weekly summaries from each house were sent to the Boston representatives. The witness declared that the system was in use up to the time he severed his connection with the National Packing company, in 1906, to become Boston manager for an independent company.

HALF OF DRUNKS GIVEN A CHANCE

Court Report Shows That Fifty Per Cent Escaped Fines.

THREE VAGS SETTLED

Half the men and women taken into the city court on the charge of public intoxication escaped punishment, according to the report completed today by Judge J. Frank Mungovan. This means that practically every other man was given a chance to reform and quit drinking.

The report shows that 1,132 men were before the court for public intoxication and of this number 1,123 were males. Five hundred and eighty-two were fined, one was acquitted and 548 were allowed to go under indefinite continuances, which is equivalent to suspended sentences.

Of the number fined 445 went to jail and 137 paid their fines. There were 2,150 prisoners in the court during the year and nearly half were up for drunkenness. One hundred and eleven were up on charges of petit larceny, 22 were in for violating the liquor laws and 471 for vagrancy. Three of the men fined for vagrancy paid their fines or had some friend or relative to come and settle for them.

This report includes only the state cases and there were a great number of prosecutions under city ordinances chiefly growing out of the fight for sanitary garbage conditions waged by the health department during the hot weather.

BOEHNE MEN GET BUSY. Flooding State With Boom Circulars for Evansville Man.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19.—Thirty-two thousand circulars describing the merits of John W. Boehne, a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Indiana are being sent broadcast over the state from the Boehne headquarters in the Lemcke annex. The circulars were prepared by the executive committee of the Hendricks club, of the First district. The communications give a short account of Mr. Boehne's private life, saying that "He is an exemplar of true Christian manhood," and then take up the events of his political life.

CRUELTY CAUSES MOST DIVORCES

Failure to Provide and Abandonment Are Second and Third.

THE COURT RECORD

Cruelty was the leading cause for divorce in the Allen county courts during the year just closed according to a report compiled today for the state statistical bureau by Deputy Clerk Will Roehrs.

All told there were 161 divorces granted to wives and sixty-three of these were obtained on cruelty, fifty-two for failure to provide and forty-three for abandonment. Husbands secured forty decrees and sixteen each were granted on charges of cruelty and abandonment. The report is as follows: Civil cases filed, 1,391; disposed of, 1,221; sent out on changes of venue, 34; sent here, 14; juvenile cases, 65; letters of administration, 206; guardianships, 95; deeds of foreclosure, 21; sheriff's sales, 17; adjudged of unsound mind, 17; marriage licenses, 918; persons naturalized, 15; declared intentions, 7.

There were 236 criminal cases filed and 123 disposed of and 93 dismissed. 36 were allowed to go on their good behavior. There were 94 liquor law cases and 4 convictions.

Asks for a Decree.
Eva M. Clarke has sued Fred Clarke for a divorce, charging abandonment and failure to provide. They lived together from 1896 to 1910 and the wife says she was abandoned after she had been compelled to make her own living. He is also charged with habitual drunkenness. Benjamin F. Hegan filed the suit.

Seeks $5,000 Alimony.
In addition to a divorce Kate Krock is asking $5,000 alimony from George T. Krock, and has secured a restraining order to prevent him from visiting her at her home or molesting her in any way. In support of her complaint she says they were married in September, 1902, that within two years afterward he began to call her names so foul she does not want to put them in her complaint, that he has accused her of infidelity, threatened to kill her, slapped her and is a habitual drunkard. Judge R. B. Dreibelbiss filed the suit.

Wife Asks for Support.
Mary F. Trentman is seeking the aid of the court in forcing Augustin N. Trentman to support her. She charges he left her in Philadelphia and came here to live with his mother and that he has provided nothing for her support. He is employed by the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, and the company is made party to the suit. Judge R. B. Dreibelbiss is her attorney.

And Still Another One.
Margaret Merz has filed a complaint in the superior court asking that Nicholas Merz be ordered to support her. He is employed by the Pennsylvania company, and she charges he has neglected to give her any money or provisions. Emrick and Emrick are her attorneys.

Obtained a Judgment.
In the DeKalb circuit court Leona Ashby obtained a verdict of $2,250 against the Sun Insurance company. She formerly resided on Eureka street and her establishment was damaged by fire. The company resisted her claim for insurance on the ground that the property did not belong to her.

PRESIDENT ON TRIP.

Mr. Taft Goes to New Haven to Attend Yale Meeting.
Washington, Jan. 19.—President Taft left Washington this morning at 7:35 o'clock for New Haven, where he will attend a dinner given by the chamber of commerce and a meeting of the Yale corporation. Starting back after the Yale corporation meeting tomorrow the president will stop in New York from 7 p. m. to midnight, during which time he is scheduled to attend banquets given by the New York Bar association, the Society of the Genesee and the Twenty-four Karat club.

MINISTERIAL CHANGE COMING.

Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs Will Soon Retire.

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 19.—Reports regarding the early retirement of Count Alois Lexa von Aehrenthal, Austrian-Hungarian foreign minister are persistent. Rumor even names his successor, who is said to be Count Szecheny von Temezin, Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Paris. This diplomat holds a very strong position with the clerical party, which has been attacking Count Aehrenthal. It is said that at the request of Count Aehrenthal the Reichsrath has decided to meet in February this year instead of March so as to enable the foreign minister to furnish details of his policy before he retires from office.

BRITISH MINERS WILL STRIKE.

Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 19.—The conference of the delegates of the Miners' Federation has decided to give notice forthwith of a national stoppage of work at the coal mines in Great Britain. The end of February, however, is the first date at which the notices can become effective. The notice is accompanied by an intimation that the men are ready to continue negotiations for a settlement. The conference was adjourned until February 1. As both sides appear to be heartily desirous of finding a way out of the deadlock there is a general feeling that a national strike, which would affect about 500,000 men, will be averted.

WOMAN STARVED TO DEATH.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19.—How Miss Claire Williamson, a wealthy English woman, starved to death under the immediate care of Mrs. Linda Burfield Hazard, a sanitarium keeper, who it is alleged, wanted her money and how Dorothea Williamson, sister of the dead woman was rescued a delicious living skeleton by her childhood nurse, was recounted here today by Prosecutor Frank H. Kelly to a jury trying Mrs. Hazard on a charge of murder.

State Chemist Condemns Spring Water
Furnished State House.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—H. E. Barnard, chief chemist for the state board of health, has pronounced unfit for use the bottled spring water that has been supplied the offices at the state house for about two years. F. Colbert, superintendent of the building, will close the contract for the spring water at the end of the month and with the state's own system of water coolers will introduce hydrant water for drinking purposes.

Mr. Barnard found the spring water high in bacilli contents, but said the bacilli were not of disease-producing varieties. He attributed the bacilli to unsanitary methods of handling.

NATIONAL GUARD INSPECTION.

Dates Are Fixed and Fort Wayne's Is Set for March 18.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19.—Brig. Gen. George McKee, adjutant general of the Indiana national guard today issued orders and set dates for the annual inspection of the guard companies. The inspection is to determine whether the guard is properly equipped and uniformed for field service and will be made by officers from the United States army.

Among the dates selected are: Company B, Terre Haute, April 10; Company E, Evansville, April 15; Company D, Fort Wayne, March 18; Company F, March 27; Battery B, Fort Wayne, April 5-6.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS BURIED.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 19.—The headless body of a man was found in an alley ash can on North Ninth street in "The black hand district," by a policeman today. The body was tied between a blanket and a mattress by a clothes line. The knees were drawn up and the hands were under them.

FAVOR BUTLER PROBE.

Toledo, O., Jan. 19.—Toledo butter dealers today expressed a willingness to assist the prosecutor in his investigation of butter prices before the grand jury here. The produce men contend that there is no conspiracy in restraint of trade as between them and the Elgin board. They say that contracts are made with the farmers for their supply, weeks and months a head of delivery and with the agreement that the Elgin prices at the time of delivery will be paid.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT SMALL COST

A Simple Remedy Beautifies
the Hair, Cures Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank smelling with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days treatment. Special Agents, Meyer Bros Co.

CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, COATED
TOUGUE, HEADACHE OR BAD STOMACH

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too, occasionally.

Butter smokes at 329° Lard at 400° You can heat Crisco to 455° and it will not smoke

No smoking—no burning

All cook books say that to fry in lard, you must get it "smoking hot."

At 400 degrees, lard begins to smoke and burn. To fry with it, you often have to fill your kitchen with smoke, and the burnt lard makes black specks on the food.

You can heat Crisco very much hotter than lard and it will not burn or smoke.

You can heat it so hot that it fries foods in half the time required with lard and no distasteful "frying odor" permeates your dining room and kitchen.

Crisco fried foods never have burnt black specks because Crisco does not burn. You will find they are the most appetizing looking fried foods you have ever seen.

In frying with lard you have noticed how you have to keep adding more. With Crisco, you never have to do this. This shows how economical Crisco is.

TO SWAP DIETS
AND HIKE BACK

Young Harvard Students Plan Return Trip on Reversed Menus.

TOOK A LONG JAUNT

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—Considering that their experiment is at best only half complete, Jesse and Warren Buffum, the young Harvard men who walked across the continent on meat and vegetarian diets, respectively, announced that, if they are given the requisite financial backing, they will retrace their path across America on reversed diets.

That is to say, Jesse, who walked from Boston on a mixed menu of which meat was the principal part, will, on the return journey, subsist on that formerly employed by his brother, which was strictly vegetarian and which brought him across the country in notably better condition than the meat-eater, and vice versa. Jesse Buffum is himself of the opinion that, with the reversed conditions, the results will be reversed.

"When we left Boston we were as nearly identical in condition as it is possible for two men to be," he said. "Nor do I believe that my brother's superior condition now is due to any inherent advantage in the matter of constitutional strength. On the first 1,100 miles of the hike, that is, from Boston to Chicago, I led him and arrived in the Windy City in better condition than he. On the last lap he has consistently and steadily gained upon me until his advantage is clearly manifest. The return journey, which we are ready to make if we can get the backing from some one interested in an experiment of such importance will clinch the matter."

"I want to make clear that, when I speak of financial backing I do not mean that my brother and myself are in it for any money that we can get out of it. We are interested in the matter only for the value of the results and we are not ourselves financially able to undertake the return on our own resources."

At the instance of a number of prominent members of the Metropolitan club, the matter was taken up with the brothers and every effort will be made to secure the requisite help in the interests of the experiment, regarded as of considerable scientific significance.

The Buffums are now ensconced in the Alexandria. They have spacious quarters and comfortable beds, but the latter are chiefly ornamental, for they do not sleep in them. The hotel clerk does not know this, neither does the house detective nor the ubiquitous bell boy. No one but Manager Whitmore and a discreet chambermaid who ordinarily makes the beds in room 730 are aware that, promptly at 10 o'clock every night, the Buffums quietly leave their room and climb up to the roof. There they crawl into their sleeping bags and, whatever the weather or temperature, they sleep through it with the open air overhead and some very hard and lumpy gravel underneath.

AT THE MAJESTIC.
NORDICA TONIGHT.

Will Give Concert at the Majestic Tonight.

The enthusiasm with which Mme. Lilian Nordica will be welcomed tonight bids fair to eclipse anything in local musical annals. Nordica is without question the most versatile singer on the stage today. Admittedly the greatest Wagnerian singer in the world, she is a shining example that one can sing Wagner without impairing the voice, for Nordica is now conceded to be doing the finest work of her whole career.

The program for tonight is a most generous one and all the numbers have been carefully selected to display the glory of the singer's marvelous voice and her consummate art. The aria from "Madame Butterfly" as sung by Nordica is something to look forward to. The diva sang this aria at her San Francisco concert a few weeks ago and the Chronicle of that city says: "Nordica's 'Madame Butterfly' was just what one expected it to be—perfect." There will also be German, French, Italian and many English songs, and of course, the Erlking, of which the same critic says: "Nordica's rendition of the 'Erlking' is as near dramatic truth as human genius can make it."

Myron Whitney, the basso, has been winning encomiums throughout the west. All critics agree that he is worthy to sing with Nordica and certainly no higher praise could be vouchsafed.

ELEANOR MONTELL.

The Clever Daughter of Eugene Blair Coming to the Majestic Monday Evening.

Eleanor Montell, who appears as Beryl Brentano in "At the Mercy of Tibertus" is one of the very few stage women who was not obliged to work up to leading characters from small utility parts. Miss Montell is the daughter of that sterling actress, Eugene Blair. Much is therefore expected of this charming young girl.

When a mere child and on a visit to Cleveland, during the summer vacation period, a member of the stock company was ill and the manager of the theater was at a loss over securing a substitute, when this child stepped in and saved the day. She rehearsed the part all night long and went on as the ingenue in "The Dancing Girl," made a splendid impression and has been on the stage ever since. Few actresses have had less leisure time, as she is always in demand for stock work in the summer and makes an annual tour of the country during the regular season.

FISKE O'HARA

The Sweet Singer of Irish Songs Coming to the Majestic Saturday Matinee and Night.

Two crowded houses at the Baker theater yesterday saw the pretty story of "Love's Young Dream" enacted by a good company supporting Fiske O'Hara, the sweet singer of Irish ballads, who gave to Theodore Burt Sayre's play an interpretation fraught with real Irish wit and yet strong and effective in the dramatic points, says the Rochester, N. Y. Times of Dec. 8th. Mr. O'Hara sings with the real heart and soul of the Irish folk. His songs delighted the audience, which recalled him many times after the familiar melodies were heard. The actor brings out every bit of comedy in his role, without overdoing it at any point and is natural and without stage tricks in all that he accomplishes. The cast supporting Mr. O'Hara is excellent.

Stage Beauty Tells Secrets of Youth

(Theatre Review in The Arch.) "I have often wondered at Jane Clayton's youthful beauty. In a burst of confidence she told me her complexion was due to a lotion which she makes by dissolving a small original package of unytone in a half pint of witch hazel. Massaging with this has kept her skin clear and satiny and preserves its girlish bloom."

"Her long, wavy and lustrous locks are due to dry shampooing. She says she never has time to wash her head and would not if she could, because wet shampoos make the hair dull and lifeless. A dry shampoo leaves the hair soft and fluffy. To make the dry shampoo, she puts a cupful of corn meal in a fruit jar and mixes with it the contents of a small original package of therox. It brushes out easily and takes all dirt with it."

"With a jar of Mother's Salve to cure sore throat, and colds and prevent catarrh, this actress travels forty-eight weeks in the year, always looks the pink of perfection, and sings at every performance."

Tea Drinking in Siam.
Tea is to be found in every tent and dwelling in Siam. There is always a kettle on the fire filled with tea and prepared for drinking, which is done by adding milk, butter and salt.
This is their way of fixing this beverage, and is said to be pleasant after one becomes accustomed to it. A peculiar mode of hospitality is shown by these people in reference to their tea. It is always at the disposal of every stranger and traveler. He need not ask for it. Neither is it expected that he should, but he must have his own cup.
This is imperative and accordingly every one carries a cup with him at all times. Some of these utensils are marvels of workmanship and are highly valued. They are generally made of some fine grained wood and oftentimes are lined with silver and gold.
Night Caps for the Roses.
Remarkable are the pains which one English amateur gardener takes to protect his pet roses from the sun, the rain and heavy dews. He gives each rose a night cap. Alongside each of the rose bushes an upright stake is driven into the ground with arms from which are suspended waterproof cones. The cones are adjusted so that each one acts as an umbrella or sunshade for the rose it is to protect. In the morning the cones are taken off. If the sun is too strong in the middle of the day the cones are put on again. They are always in place in case of a heavy shower, and at night each goes to sleep beneath its protecting cone, where the heavy dews cannot spoil its shape and beauty.

MR. EDDIE FOY, the PROUD POSSESSOR of HOME-GROWN AUDIENCE and CRITICS

New York, Saturday.

COME on and hear Mr. Eddie Foy, president of the "Child Trust," tell about the eight little Foyes, the drama and the high cost of living all over New Rochelle. Found the wholesale parent and fun-maker at the Globe Theatre, where he is conveying loads of delighted passengers "Over the River" at every performance. "Where is Mr. Foy?" the stage manager was asked.

"Make a noise like a rattlebox," he replied. "That's what we do when we want him. Step in his dressing room and I'll get him for you."

"Greetings, little one!" came in the well known mock tragic voice as the commuting comedian entered the room.

"You're a fine one. Been trotting all over the Globe, looking for you?"

"Cease!" came the command in a sobbing voice, while the right hand went up in a deprecating gesture, the same movement that his friends know so well. He was actually crying as he continued: "Don't scold me. I can't bear to have any one cross with me."

"Have you any excuse for being late?"

"There's seven excuses," he replied, pointing to a flock of young Foyes in a photograph on the wall. "And there's one that's not in the picture. Isn't that a champion group?"

"It must have cost something to have them photographed."

"Really more than I could afford. I had them taken through a misunderstanding. The photographer said his price was $20 a dozen. Of course I thought he referred to children and figured that he would make a special rate when he found I had but eight, but he wouldn't."

"Are you always late getting to the theatre?"

"A man living in New Rochelle is always late for everything, and a man with eight children is eight times as late. In addition to missing each one of them good-by I have to take each of them on my lap for a few minutes."

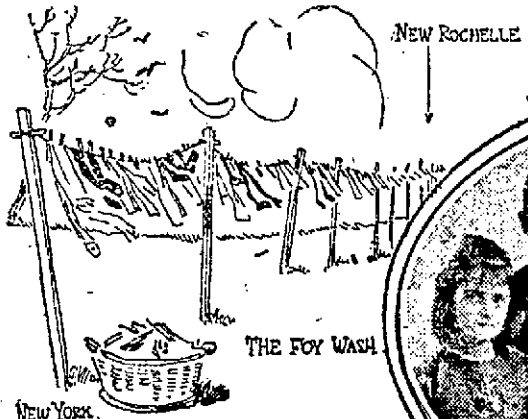

"And you've got only one lap."

"I'm frightfully handicapped in the matter of laps. I'm seven laps behind the world's record."

"How's business?"

"Fine, but you see I can't lose in that direction. I'm sure of a big house if I stay home."

"Standing room only?"

J. NORMAN LIND.

"And very little of that. I am one of the few actors in a position to carry his own audiences. Broadway managers shiver when they see me coming. They think I'm going to ask for seats for myself and family. Most of them find it cheaper to give a special performance for us, but none of them has ever turned us down. When they have a poor attraction they rely upon our attendance to make it look like a long run."

"Are there any leading ladies in the Foy stock company?"

"Three girls and five boys."

"Their names and ages, please?"

"Help!" yelled the comedian. "I haven't got the batting order with me. Just get the New Rochelle directory and tear out the 'F' page."

"All ready."

"Have you no mercy?" came in a sepulchral sob. "I've got a poor memory, but I'll do the best I can. I keep track of them with an adding machine, but I left it home. Let me see," said the comedian, scratching his head like a man trying to remember the capital of Patagonia.

"There's Katherine," he went on. "She's sixteen and the eldest; Bryan, fifteen; Charlie, twelve; Richard, eleven; Mary, ten; Madeline, eight; Felix, seven; Irving, four."

"Bryan was named for William Jennings Bryan the first time he ran. I'll never forget how I hurried to have the boy christened. As it turns out I could have taken my time, because Bryan is running yet. We started naming the children after trampled on until I was unable to dance. I started out looking for a place in the suburbs. Half a dozen places learned of the large population I was carrying, and I was besieged with literature from Chambers of Commerce in all parts of Jersey, Westchester and Long Island. I selected New Rochelle because it was the only station I could understand when the trainman was calling out the names."

"And you built a mansion."

Experience as a Farmer.

"Mansion nothing! That's the popular impression, but it's wrong. I bought a little house which would hold us all at the same time and I've got two acres of ground."

"Do you raise anything?"

"Nothing but children. I planted strawberries last spring and then sat around waiting for them to show, but there was nothing doing. Then I tried grass, and that was a failure. We've got the finest crop of rocks you ever saw. But it's a great place for the children. You ought to see the family wash. It laps over into Pelham Manor. We are kept busy telling people that we do not take in children. They think it is an asylum."

"Have you got a car?"

"I've got what is left of one. It looks like one of those old fashioned rat traps. It hasn't any name. You can run it with gasoline, kerosene, soft coal or any old thing. The children feed it buttermilk during the summer. It always goes, though, and we all go with it. Looks like the Hanlon Brothers' trick coach when we are all on board. It took us two days to come to New York one day. We have never been arrested for speeding. I've tried to bribe a dozen constables to arrest us so that I could brag about it, but they wouldn't do it."

"How can you be funny with such a large family?"

"I've got to be funny or the large family would starve. If you want to know something about the high cost of living come thing and I'll show you some bills. My weekly butcher bill looks like a bank statement. Where the ordinary family does with a turkey for Thanksgiving I have to have an ostrich. We had a cow for Christmas."

"Do any of the children give promise of being actors?"

"Not yet. I've had them all vaccinated. But they're all keen students of the drama and my severest critics. I'm always afraid to face them after a new offence."

"Have they seen 'Over the River'?"

"They were here the opening night."

"What did they think of you?"

"I haven't been able to get a definite line on it yet, but it was far from flattering. You see, Mrs. Foy is an Italian, and all the children speak Italian, French, German and a few other things. Their mother was a linguist, and now I'm paying the penalty. When the children discuss me they talk in Italian. I can't understand them, but from the way they were gesticulating the morning after the opening I fear the worst."

"Was Mrs. Foy on the stage?"

"She was a famous dancer a quarter of a century ago. She did solo dancing at the Paris Opera House and appeared in many important productions in this country. She was known as Madeline Miranda."

"How long have you been in the business?"

On Stage Forty-Five Years.

"About forty-five years. I earned my first money as a dancer when I was eight years old. I've created more than fifty parts in extravaganzas and musical comedies. I was leading man with a dramatic stock company for three seasons on the level. I was rather a handsome chap at the time" (and he smiled). "I was one of the most dashing little Armands that ever teased a Camille. Oh, that was more than thirty years ago. Most of my professional career has been passed in minstrelsy and musical comedy."

"Are the comedians more clever than they were when you were serving your apprenticeship?"

"I don't think so. There are a great many more comedians now than there were then, but with few exceptions they are limited as to talent. The comedians of the present day are not as well equipped as the old timer, who had to be ready to do anything he was asked to do at short notice. If he wasn't able to do it he starved. In justice to the younger generation of laugh makers, they haven't had the opportunities for getting that education."

"We have no Billy Emersons or Frits Emmetts in our ranks at the present time," continued the comedian, after reeling off a list of famous singers and funmakers who have long since gone to their reward. "I've played with them all, old and new, and to my mind Emerson was the greatest performer that ever stood in shoe leather. I'll probably be criticised for this statement, but in my opinion Emerson had as fine a voice as the great Caruso. Had as much strength and sweetness have never been equalled. He was grace itself as a dancer, had a magnetic stage presence and was the idol of his time. But that will be about all of that. I'm beginning to reminisce. The first thing you know I'll be telling my right name."

"What is it?"

"Fitzgerald, with a little 't'. Goodby. I'm going into this drug store to get a barrel of paregoric."

BRING NEXT CONVENTION.

Delegates to Retail Merchants' Meeting Say It Was Easy.

Fort Wayne delegates to the Indiana State Retail Merchants' convention returned last evening from Gary and they say that the next year's meeting was captured for Fort Wayne without a struggle. There seemed to be a general feeling among the delegates that Fort Wayne, having lost it by but a single vote last year, was clearly entitled to next year's convention.

The Toledo, Fort Wayne, and Chicago barge canal was endorsed in resolutions, parcels post was opposed and there was a demand for express company regulation by the state rail commission. H. H. Highland, of Gary, was elect president, and other officers chosen were: W. S. French, Evansville, vice president; Thomas Palfrey, Vincennes, secretary, and George M. Haffner, Fort Wayne, treasurer.

Executive board — W. S. French, Evansville; R. E. Clark, Anderson; J. R. Walsh, Terre Haute; D. N. Foster, Fort Wayne; Delmar Baer, South Bend; A. Workhoff, Lafayette; Lorenzo Mishach, Indianapolis.

When buying a cough medicine for children bear in mind that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is most effective for colds, croup and whooping cough and that it contains no harmful drug. For sale by all dealers.

WANTS MONEY FOR MISSIONS

Preacher Quits Pulpit and Takes Up Farming to Earn It.

HE HAS 4,000 ACRES

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 19.—Dr. Sanford P. Cresap, who for twenty years has been one of the most prominent members of the Missouri conference of the Southern Methodist church, has retired from conference work to manage his farm of 4,000 acres in the extreme southwestern corner of Iowa, and to devote much of his time and means to evangelistic and mission work without such compensation.

At the time of resigning from the conference, Cresap was presiding elder of the St. Joseph district of the M. E. church, south, and prior to that he had served three years as pastor of the Francis Street Methodist church here, the largest Southern Methodist congregation in Northwest Missouri.

The immense tract of land which Cresap will hereafter manage was inherited by his wife from her father, the late Moses L. Payne, who also was a Southern Methodist preacher. It is in the rich Missouri river bottom, where crops never fail. Two thousand acres are in grass and hay, 1,500 acres are used for corn and there are wheat fields comprising 500 acres. It is known as the Valley Stock farm, and the minister is assisted in cultivating it by twelve families of tenants. He gives his personal attention to the management of the place, particularly to the feeding and breeding of stock, and a few days ago he accompanied several carloads of cattle to the St. Joseph market, where he sold them.

Will Support Missions.

Cresap's motives in retiring from regular ministerial work were purely altruistic. For a number of years he has been deeply interested in foreign missions and he and his wife have been supporting a missionary in China. In 1908 he accompanied the late Bishop Seth Ward, of Texas, upon a tour of missions in the orient, and it was then that he made up his mind that he could accomplish more good by devoting his time and energies to his business affairs and giving more of his means for that branch of church work. He is arranging to send several more missionaries to the far eastern field at his own expense.

It is not Dr. Cresap's purpose to give up preaching entirely. He will preach in country churches and school houses, where there are no regular pastors, and he is giving earnest support to Valley Farm church, adjacent to his land, founded by his father-in-law, and which bears the distinction of being the "farthest north Southern Methodist church." Of course, he will accept no pay for preaching, but, on the contrary, purposes building up at his personal expense congregations and church houses in such localities as he thinks need them.

Is College Official.

Cresap is a native of Missouri, having been born on a farm in St. Charles county, forty-two years ago. He is a graduate of Central college at Fayette, Mo., where he received the degree of D. D. last June. He is chairman of the board of trustees of the conference fund, for the benefit of superannuated Southern Methodist preachers of the Missouri conference, which now contains nearly $100,000. These offices he will retain.

While pastor at Columbus, Mo., he built a $30,000 church. He spent a year in 1901, in study in the American School of Classics in Rome, during which time he visited, with his wife, the Holy Land, Egypt, Turkey and Greece, devoting much time to the art galleries.

Valley Stock farm is a part of a tract of nearly 10,000 acres purchased at a nominal price by the late Moses L. Payne immediately after the civil war, and which was at that time considered to be practically worthless. Payne, who had been a Missouri preacher, and who was a native of Kentucky, became immensely rich and until his death, sixteen years ago, gave freely to charities and benevolences. He gave thousands of dollars to the Howard-Payne college at Fayette, contributed to the building of many Southern Methodist churches in this state and subscribed large sums to the support of mission work. He was a personal friend of the late David Rankin, of Tarkio, who owned large tracts of land just across the state line in Missouri, and who was equally liberal and enthusiastic in his support of churches, colleges and benevolences of the United Presbyterian church, of which he was a member.

Dr. Cresap is preparing to build a handsome residence in Nebraska City, Neb., just across the Missouri river from his land, next spring, and will make that place his permanent home.

DEATH AS RESULT OF A BROKEN LEG

Uria S. Hosler, Well Known Man of Whitley County, Died at His Country Home.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 19.—Uria S. Hosler, one of the well known residents of Thormereck township, died at his home near Cresco Thursday afternoon at 3:30, just two weeks to the day from the time his right leg was broken by the trunk of a tree rolling upon him.

Mr. Hosler and son had gone to the woods to cut some wood and had felled a tree which rested on its branches. Mr. Hosler had just cut off a large limb which was holding up the trunk, when the latter suddenly turned over and caught him in such a manner as to break the large bone of his right leg. He was taken to his home and given the attention necessary, but his physical condition and vitality were not great enough to carry him through the trying ordeal, and he gradually weakened until death came.

Mr. Hosler was born in Starke county, Ohio, October 31, 1845, and was 66 years, 2 months and 17 days of age at his death. He was an old soldier having served with the 76th Ohio for about three years and received an honorable discharge.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, George, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Jacob, at home. He was a member of the Methodist church.

COLUMBIA CITY NEWS.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Cash Halderbaum are the proud parents of a ten pound boy, which arrived Wednesday night.

Sherman Haines and Henry J. Pressler, of Thormereck township, and Forest Baker, of this city, were given the chief-tain's degree in the Red Men order Wednesday night.

Mrs. Mary L. Berry and Miss Lizzie Wunderlich, of this city, went to Fort Wayne Thursday noon to attend a matinee at the Majestic theater.

Miss Rora Kaufman, of North Walnut street, will leave Friday morning for Marion, where she will visit Miss Cordie Lyons, a former trimmer in a millinery store of this city.

Mrs. Tom Adams, of this city, is at the present time confined to her home and bed suffering from double pneumonia and her condition is said to be critical.

A marriage license was issued Thursday morning to Miss Ada M. Nei, daughter of Elmer J. Nei, of Columbia township, and Orland J. Hurd, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hurd, of Columbia township.

WANTS CLASS IN CHILD REARING

Kansas Professor Urges School Advance on New Lines.

COURTING IS ON LIST

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 19.—The average farmer knows more about putting hogs on the market and how to prepare them to bring the best prices, and the average business man more about putting his goods on the market, than either does about rearing his children to do the best in the market of life, in the opinion of Professor W. A. McKeever, professor of philosophy at the Kansas Agricultural College.

Prof. McKeever regards this as a most serious problem, and before the next Kansas legislature he will urge an appropriation for each of the big state schools for courses in child rearing, to put the "kiddies" on an equal footing with the pigs and cows and chickens in the barn yard and with the silks and satins of the merchant.

"Business is an exact science," said Prof. McKeever, on a visit to his brother in Topeka. "Stock raising is an exact science. The merchant knows the value of certain qualities of goods. A certain trade mark has a certain value. It is the pedigree of the goods. The farmer knows the value of certain blood strains in pigs and cows and chickens. The stock pedigree is worth millions to the stockman of the country."

Worth of a Pedigree.
"What's the pedigree of a baby worth? Did you ever stop to think that the pedigree of a small boy might be worth dollars and cents to him and to others in the future and much in things money cannot buy—happiness, society and the respect of the fellow-man?"

The business man is exceedingly particular about the pedigree of the stock he puts on his shelves and the farmer guards with jealous care the pedigree of his live stock, but neither seems to care a whoop about the pedigree of his children or grandchildren.

"Child rearing is the same old hap-hazard, hit or miss, guesswork sort of an affair, while business and stock-raising are an exact science. It is time child rearing was put on a scientific basis. Of how much good will goods or stock be in the future if the quality of the men and women is lowered?"

"Every college ought to teach child rearing and make it a required course of study for every boy and girl. Every school ought to have a course in matrimony to teach boys and girls the good points in each other."

"Science has developed certain propositions regarding the physical and mental activities of a person whereby it is possible to tell, almost to a certainty, just what the offspring will be. Young people should be taught what to look for in the physical appearance of a boy or girl that should tend to make the children strong, healthy and active, and what to watch for in the mental activities to determine, in advance, the mental activities of the children."

Loves Her Doll Face.
"A boy or girl meets one of the opposite sex and falls in love—the girl because the boy has good clothes and apparently a good physique, and the boy because the girl has a doll face and a picture hat, and the children of the pair may come to something worthwhile."

"Love making ought to be an exact science, taught in the public schools, worked out scientifically in every detail, and with legal checks on marriage that would prevent the marriage of the unfit. One must pass an examination to become a school teacher, where the teacher has much to do with the character of the child, but that same teacher, without examination or investigation, can get any old fellow to marry her or him, and they start a home and take chances on the character of the children."

BLUFFTON NEWS.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 19.—There will be an open meeting of Matinee Musicale at the home of Mrs. N. K. Todd on next Monday afternoon.

Miss Sarah Markley entertained Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Maude Hawk, of Fort Wayne.

L. C. Davenport and D. A. Walmer, of this city, have been re-elected directors of the Federal Union Surety company, of Indianapolis.

John Belot, ex-deputy county clerk in Allen county, is here to assist Clerk Wandel for a few weeks. Since Deputy H. L. Wisner was taken sick several weeks ago Mr. Wandel has been the only person in the office and owing to an injury he received last Sunday he is nearly unable to work.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porter returned home Wednesday afternoon after spending the past two months at different points in the southwest. Mr. Porter did considerable hunting and intended to remain in the southwest until spring, but they experienced cold weather there, and for this reason returned home.

HEADACHE?

A Recent Discovery, Externally Applied, Stops Headache in One Minute by the Watch.

A recent discovery enables physicians to prescribe a harmless external application that almost instantaneously stops headaches without taking into the system any of the harmful and dangerous drugs and powders that have been so indiscriminately used for the treatment of headaches and neuralgia.

If you suffer from headaches "the morning after" or from any cause whatever, go to some first-class drug store, such as Meyer Bros. Co., and ask for a half ounce of yellow holiok (sufficient to stop a dozen headaches). Apply to the forehead, temples and back of the ears with a small brush which the druggist will supply free with the holiok, and your headache will be gone in not more than one minute. The druggist won't charge more than 25 cents. A good plan is to carry it with you always.
